Although Bostonians drank in with a sigh of great satisfaction breaths of pure, slightly cooled air to-day, it was but temporary relief in the hot wave with which the greater city has been bathed for the past three days.

In the early forenoon there was a sprinkle of rain. But the drops were licked up by the heated pavements as soon as they fell. The weather man faithfully promised more rain in the afternoon, but the sun was blazing away in the middle of the afternoon, and it did not look as though the forecaster would be able to make good.

Starting at 70 at 8 o'clock, the mercury steadily climbed as the day wore on, and at 2 this afternoon it had reached 88. These were the official figures up in the Weather Bureau, more than a hundred feet above the street. It was from five to ten degrees hotter in the street.

Still this is not the hottest June 24 on record, if that is any comfort. A temperature of 94 was reached on this corresponding day in 1875 and 1882. The lowest temperature for a June 24 was 49 in 1903. A year ago to-day the maximum temperature was 80.

Humidity Is 79.

The humidity to-day averaged about seventy-nine percent. That is just nine points above the normal and it was largely responsible for the greater part of the suffering in the Greater City.

Death, insanity and prostrations have been the toll of the hot spell. In Greater Boston four people have succumbed, two have gone crazy and about 60 have been prostrated. All of New England is in the heat zone, some of the suburban cities of Boston suffering from a fiercer blaze of the sun than this city.

Besides the two dead in Boston, one died in Newburyport, one in Hopkinton, one in Swampscott, one in Salem and one in Danvers.

In the schools of this and other cities and towns of New England where the terms have not closed yet, it was hard to interest the pupils in their lessons. In some instances the attempt was given up and the schools shut up.

Buffer in Tenements.

In the tenement sections of the city hundreds of children were off for the parks shortly after daylight. It had been a night of much suffering in the congested homes, and roofs and fire escapes were filled with men, women and children who sought slumber under the most distressing circumstances.

More than fifty little boys and girls, carrying sacks and baskets, flocked to the Atlantic avenue fish wharves, anxious to pick up the bits of ice that dropped from the carts and wagons of dealers. These little bits of humanity struggled and fought for the tiny pieces of ice as though they were pieces of gold and when they finally got what would make a cool pitcher of water they hurried to their homes well satisfied with their foraging.

In Congress street half a dozen Syrian women were noticed, trudging along in the heat, with great bundles of wood balanced on their heads. Perspiration poured from their swarthy faces. One of the women was seen to stagger, finally she reeled, her burden crashed to the sidewalk, and she toppled to the street. She was helped to a step. A glass of water was quickly procured, and held to her lips, and in a few moments she was revived sufficiently to take up the load again and continue on her way.

Children in Parks.

The North End parks were alive with babies. They were cared for by "Little Mothers," who protected them with loving ministrations from the heavy rays of the sun when it peeped out from the clouds. fanned their little flushed faces and in Babies with Parched Lips.

A FIRE hydrant on one of the mean streets of Boston was leaking. Two tiny youngsters revelled in the leaking water. They drank it thirstily and they laved their small, hot toes in the escaping stream. It was a very warm day. The joy of these babies over a leaking fire hydrant would cause anyone who did not have a heart of stone to pause and look and think.

It was a more common street incident. But it illustrated vividly the point that the city's duty is to supply water on the principal corners of the town. Let no baby in this city of opulence suffer with parched mouth and racking lips.

GIRL VICTIM OF CHINESE SLAIN BY TWO MEN

NEW YORK, June 24.—The police to-day were convinced that two men were concerned in the murder of Elsie Sigel, granddaughter of General Frans Sigel, who was strangled in Leon Ling's room, over a chop suey place at No. 792 Eighth avenue.

Leon was weak and a consumptive, they say, and did not have the strength to overcome Miss Sigel, who was stronger, and heavier than he. Chong Sing, his roommate, was a stronger man, but he insists that he did not help Leon.

Chong Bing has been trapped in many lies and his previous confession materially changed by his new admissions. He admitted that he was in the room after the girl was killed, that he felt her body, which was still warm, and then her pulse. He denied he helped put the body in the trunk, but admitted he gave Leon $250 to aid him to escape.

Clews in Confession.

He was questioned at length about Leon's plans for escape and gave information which the police believe will lead to the capture in a few days of the missing Leon. Several detectives who were with Captain Carey and Assistant District Attorney Ward at the time of the confession left the city immediately, most of them going to the South.

A dispatch from San Francisco to-day says that the police there have information that Leon is in that city and will try to get away on the Pacific mail steamer Manchuria. The steamer will be closely guarded.

Chong Sing and Chu Gain, the latter Leon's rival for the affections of Elsie Sigel, learned industriously to-day that they had been marked for death by one of the powerful secret organizations of Chinese in this city.

The Chinese Masons made the formal announcement to-day that they had not placed SOLDIERS' FIELD, June 24.—The first of the Harvard-Yale baseball games was played here this afternoon, starting at 2 p. m. There was an enormous crowd present. Not less than ten thousand were on hand to view the contest.

Harvard men were not afraid of the result. They compared the Harvard-Princeton and Yale-Princeton series and found that Harvard outbatted the Elis in the games against the Tigers 235 to 235. They pointed to the fast base running indulged in against Penn State last Saturday when ten bases were stolen.

Harvard ballplayers have the confidence of many years of being able to trim the Elis at baseball. They have done it year in and year out.

Harvard rolled on the pitching staff and said that the two twirlers for the Crimson are too good for the Elis.

There was a generous rivalry from both sides of the stands, but the Yale men because of the good score against Carnell and the victory over Princeton started the game with more heart than ever before.

Roosevelt carnations, of a dark red color, American Beauty and Liberty roses, those roses of a vivid red color in corsage bouquets worn by stunning looking girls, made the Harvard grand stand on the third-base side look like a veritable bank of Crimson.

Young women were arrayed like Joseph's coat, in all colors of the rainbow. The patriarch sported the real colors. It was a bewildering scene with millinery costly enough to buy a marble palace in Newport.

On the Yale side the women were bedecked in blue gauzes, blue sweet peas and lobelia blossoms and most of the men wore boutonnieres of bachelor buttons. The blue serge suits of the men were relieved by the bright costumes of the women. It was a contrast in colors—crimson on one side and the blue on the other.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, June 24.—The Giants and the lowly Boston Doves met this afternoon in, another double attraction, the first game being started at 2 o'clock.

This is the second long session in two days, as the teams played a double-header in the torrid weather yesterday. The Doves want revenge for the terrible beating they received in the two games yesterday and were right on the job fighting all the way.

Manager Frank Bowerman, who has been away on an extended trip through the bush leagues looking for youngsters to bolster up his team, is back with the club and is now directing the players.

Big Mike was up a stump as to what pitcher he would send to the mound as the second contest of yesterday's attraction used up the majority of his stab artists.

FIRST GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Becker died quickly with a foul near the stand that Bridwell captured. O'Hara was flying in short, centre for Starr's little lift. Bates's grounder was pie for Bridwell and Tenney. NO RUNS.

Tenney fouled to Dahlen. Doyle hit a liner to Becker. Bates chased under Mr. Cornick's clout. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

Beaumont died, Doyle to Tenney. Sweeney singled to right centre. Raymond nailed Sweeney asleep with a quick peg to Tenney.

Bridwell had his second assist to Graham of Autrey. NO RUNS.

Murray got a two-bagger, his liner hitting the left fence. O'Hara pushed a single to Bates, scoring Murray. O'Hara tried to make second, was nabbed, Bates to Sweeney to Starr. Devlin drove a hit past Dahlen. Dahlen took a line drive from Bridwell and in an effort to double Devlin at first made a sour chunk which sent Devlin to third. Schlei died to Beaumont. ONE RUN.

KIMBALL GUILTY OF $18,000 WOOL THEFT

After being out two days and twice reporting that they could not agree, the jury in the Superior Court at Salem to-day returned a verdict of guilty against Willis N. Kimball of Lawrence for stealing $18,000 of wool from the American Woolen Company. Kimball was acquitted of the charge of conspiracy. He was employed by the company, and it was charged that the wool was stolen by the manipulation of warehouse receipts. Four other employes who were indicted on a similar charge have already pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GROUNDS, Washington, June 24.—The Boston boys were in splendid shape for the series with the Washingtons. The local outfit was in a badly crippled condition, and it should be easy running for the Red Sox in all five games. Only one game was played to-day, but a double-header is carded for to-morrow, playing off the game postponed on April 20.

Bob Unglaub's mother is dying, and the player is with her in Baltimore. This puts four of Washington's best men out of it although Browne and Delehanty may go in Saturday's game in a badly crippled condition, both suffering from strained tendons.

Nick Altrock was carded to make good against the Red Sox, but he had a hard time with his crippled support.

Jacob Leifvelt, the centre fielder of the leading Tri-State team, has been bought by Washington and may report here in time for to-day's game. He has been sought after by several clubs of both the American and National League, but Cantillon's $3,000 angered him.

EXPLOSION IN TECH BUILDING

Technology students tangled up their chemicals to-day in the laboratory on the top floor of the Walker Building and an explosion followed.

Assistant Professor S. P. Mulliken was directing the experiments of a dozen students. One of the students supplied a flask of ether into a jug in which water was standing.

But there was a small quantity of sodium in the ether. The sodium ignited on contact with the water and the ether followed suit with an explosion.

While cooler students put out the blaze with sand, excited ones pulled in an alarm from the box in Copley Square. The fire gang had a run in the sweltering heat for nothing. No one reported a chemical formula of their own, which sounded like two parts profanity and one part plain opinion of some people.

ACTOR TELLS POISON PLOT IN GOULD CASE

NEW YORK, June 24.—The long-expected poison sensation broke in the Gould separation suit to-day when the deposition of Dustin Farnum was read. In it he said that Mrs. Howard Gould told him at the Carroll house in Lynchburg, Va., that she had been poisoned.

Attorney C. J. Shearn, representing Mrs. Gould, produced the deposition, and when Attorney Delancey Nicoll, representing Mr. Gould, entered an objection, Mr. Shearn said that he would be able to produce Farnum in court Monday.

"If that is satisfactory I will not offer this deposition," said Mr. Shearn. Justice Dowling said the proceedings could not be delayed until Monday and so the deposition was admitted. Farnum entered a general denial of the charges made by Gould.

Justice Dowling's part of the Supreme Court was besieged by a record-breaking crowd hoping to hear Mrs. Gould's second denial of the diffamatory allegations made by her husband. Mrs. Gould came into the court room dressed in the black silk negligee gown that she has worn every day since the suit began.

To her attorney, Clarence J. Shearn, the plaintiff disclosed that she wanted to take the witness stand again. The severe grilling she underwent from Delancey Nicoll had no terror for Mrs. Gould, she told the reporters who inquired if she would again testify.

"It is necessary to give some explanation of why Farnum is not called," Nicoll objected when Shearn offered the actor's affidavit.

Farnum "Supposed Actor."

"He was in this court house during the trial. I would like to cross-examine him."

"It is true Mr. Farnum was here," answered Shearn. "He left to go to Maine. I telegraphed him on Monday and received word he was ill. His wife or his physician is both real word of his inability to be present. I can produce him to Monday."

Nicoll was not satisfied with this explanation. Justice Dowling said that if the part mentioned until Monday Mr. Shearn could call the actor after Mrs. Gould's law-

Women Sell Goods to Queen.

LONDON—When the Queen visited the charity fete at Olympia, held to aid the great Ormond Street Children's Hospital, she found a dozen distinguished Americans among the stallholders, and she devoted the greater portion of her two hours' stay to making purchases from them. At Mr. Harcourt's stall she bought rare Greek laces. From Mrs. Anthony Drexel she obtained a handful of enamel gold pencils, while from the Duchess of Roxburghs she purchased a number of beautiful trifles. Last night at a dinner given to the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia by Lord and Lady Bessborough, in Carendish square, the American guests invited to meet the royal party included Mr. and Mrs. Waldorf Astor and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, while Miss Drexel was one of the most beautiful girls attending the dance which followed.

International Weather Code.

LONDON—The American and European delegates to the commission appointed by the International Meteorological Committee in Paris in 1907, to consider the adoption of an international system of marine weather signals, are preparing to perform system. The new code will necessitate changes in the existing methods in signalling weather conditions, and as the American Weather Bureau has authorized a change of signals without reference to the congress it is expected that this international code will be adopted first at the stations on the American coast.

BAR FISHING IN LAKE COCHITUATE

The full bench of the Supreme Court denied a petition for a rehearing of the case of the Metropolitan Water Board against Joseph F. Minton, which was filed by the respondent. The board prohibited fishing and boating in Lake Cochituate, and the court some time ago upheld the rule of the board, holding the lake was a "great pond" and a part of the public domain.

The defendant claimed he had discovered new evidence tending to show he held a deed from descendants of the Indians, giving him the right to boat and fish. The court holds that the taking of the lake by the City of Boston under legislative enactment operated to vest in the city any right, title to and to the waters of the pond belonging at the date of such taking to any individual or community however acquired.

NEW SCHOOL FOR CITY OF CAMBRIDGE

The Finance Committee of the city government of Cambridge is committed to a new grammar school to cost $90,000. Some time ago the School Board suggested two plans to care for conditions existing in the eastern end of the city. One was to add a twelve-room section to the Putnam School and care for all grammar school pupils of the district there. The second was to purchase additional land near the Thorndike School and construct a new building in place of the old one. The Finance Committee favored a new Thorndike School building of fourteen rooms and halls, and voted to report a $90,000 appropriation for the purpose.

The Pilgrim Publicity Association, formerly the Ad Men's Club, held its first field and ladies' day at Nantasket, with about 350 members and guests attending. The program started with sports and wound up with an amateur minstrel performance in the theatre at Paragon Park. The sports when representing the solicitors and the agents played baseball, the solicitors winning, 7 to 2. Irving French, the old Dartmouth captain, pitched for the solicitors, and Allen Wood was in the box for the agents. Bacon came next, managed by H. P. Barber. On account of the heat the 50 men's race was cut down to 100 yards. Vesine Eastman and Harry Barber entered the 100-yard event, and Barber won after running a dead heat with Bell. Gordon C. Douglas won the sack race, and the egg sports soon event went to G. W. Carter, Mayor Hibbard and Secretary White were among the guests of the association. N. Y. WOMEN LEAD TIPPLERS

NEW YORK, June 24.—"Nowhere in the world do wealthy women drink so freely and so audaciously as in New York," declared Leo Theimer to an AMERICAN reporter to-day.

Theimer has been head waiter of the main restaurant of the St. Regis Hotel since its opening, and has had unexcelled opportunities to observe the convivial traits of rich women. He had testified in the separation suit of Mrs. Gould that he had often seen society women "drink too much."

"The way New York women are allowed to drink promiscuously is almost a crime," said Theimer. "It would not be tolerated in any other country in the world.

"Mind, I'm not saying all New York women drink, or that those who do drink do so excessively. I've seen society women drink too much here, but I've never seen one of them drunk—for the simple reason that we won't allow them to become intoxicated.

"In some places I could name women are permitted to imbibe to their heart's content—sometimes even to the extent of becoming beastly—what do you call it? 'Stewed'? Yes, stewed. But they are a much faster, sportier set than frequents this hotel.

"There, when we see that a person is taking too much, we quietly inform that person, wherever it may be, that no more drinks will be served."

WIN FIGHT TO KEEP FOUNTAIN

Acting upon the protests of Alderman O'Hara and hundreds of South Boston citizens, Water Commissioner Hannan has reconsidered the removal of a water fountain at Fifth and Q streets, and will relocate the drinking place within a few yards where it has been.

The fountain has been a comfort to residents in the vicinity during the hot weather for a number of years, and when they discovered workmen removing it during the present warm spell there was a united protest.

Water Commissioner Hannan states that complaints were received over the manner in which the children of the district promiscuously squirted the water about, and for that reason a change of location was considered. Alderman O'Hara will to-day visit the district with the commissioner and decide upon the new location.

MOTHER SAVES FIVE CHILDREN FROM FLAMES

Mrs. Dennis McGrath snatched three of her youngest children from a blazing bed at her home in East Boston early to-day, carried them to the tenement below, then rushed back upstairs and took down two more children from an adjoining bed. There are nine McGrath boys and girls in all. The two oldest took down the two youngest.

In the two tenements below three adults and five children were alarmed by the fire above, but did not have to get out.

The McGraths live on the top floor of the three-story wooden tenement at No. 210 Marginal street. While Mrs. McGrath was putting the children's clothes out to-day three-year-old Josephine, playing with matches in the bedroom, set on fire the bed containing herself and seven-year-old Ellen and eight-year-old Annie. Mrs. McGrath took them down to the tenement of Patrick Morrissey on the second floor, then went back for five-year-old Joe and seven-year-old John.

Two-year-old Mary took down two-year-old Frank, and nine-year-old Margaret went down with Baby Gertrude, one year old, in her arms.

Patrick Morrissey of the second floor pulled in an alarm and the fire department responded so quickly that the damage was confined to $25 to the bed, bedding and chamber.

MAYOR RICH'S MOTHER DIES; LONG HIS IDOL

Mrs. Della T. Rich, mother of Mayor John F. Rich of Lynn, and to whom the Mayor has devoted years of tender care, died to-day at her home, No. 72 Gardner street, Lynn. Death came almost at midnight, with Mrs. Rich's children all at her bedside.

Mrs. Rich, who was born in Ireland sixty-six years ago, has long been an invalid. During all the years of her illness Mayor Rich, who is not married, gave her his constant care. It was this devotion on his part, more than anything else, that made to do with his triumphant election as Mayor, although a Democrat, in a strongly Republican city.

Miss Rich survives, in addition to the Mayor, by two sons, George H. and Charles Rich of Lynn and by a married daughter, Mrs. Edward Howard of Saugus. Years ago, George H. Rich, the Mayor's father, died.

Today the Mayor is not at City Hall, President Frank Turnbull of the Board of Aldermen is acting Mayor. Last night on the occasion of the commencement exercises of the grammar schools of the west-ern side of the Blue City, when Mayor Rich was to have presented the pupils with their diplomas he was compelled to send a letter stating that his mother was dying and that he could not be present.

THOUSANDS AT BIG OUTING OF THE EAGLES

FITCHBURG, June 24.—Fully twenty thousand members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and their friends are in Fitchburg to-day. Ten thousand members, clad in resplendent regalia, marched through the streets of the city at noon to-day to the music of scores of bands.

Boston Lodge No. 45, 200 members strong, came here shortly before 11 o'clock. Four other special trains brought the lodges from Worcester, Providence, Hartford and New Haven.

Governor Draper of Massachusetts and Governor Pothier of Rhode Island reviewed the great parade from a special stand. Lieutenant-Governor Frothingham, members of Governor Draper's council and Governor Pothier's staff of eighteen members, in full uniform, were on the reviewing stand along with Mayor M. Fred O'Connell.

Boston Lodge No. 45 left the North station in Boston in a special train at 8.35. A fast run was made over the Fitchburg division to this city. The officials of Boston Lodge are: John Gibbard, worthy president; Morris Clark, worthy vice-president; John Keenan, treasurer; William Axe, financial secretary; Michael Burke, corresponding secretary, and John Moran, chaplain.

Sixth Annual Field Day.

Boston Lodge presented a splendid appearance as it marched through the streets to Main street, where the big parade started.

Everywhere from all parts of the compass came the visiting Eagles to-day. Hundreds had arrived yesterday and last night. This is the great day of the year for the Eagles, for it is their sixth annual field day, and they are making the most of it.

Never did Fitchburg extend such a magnificent welcome as that accorded the Eagles to-day. The whole city was in gala dress, and the public buildings were specially decorated in honor of the visitors.

Worthy President Thomas H. Powers of the local aerie, as the head of the Committee on Arrangements, made every preparation for the reception of the crowds. Nothing had been omitted, and the Eagles had a splendid time.

All of the hotels were crowded to their capacity, but the Eagles of the local aerie saw to it that private houses were thrown open, so no one was without shelter and the best of hospitality.

Miles Grand Marshal.

The big parade, of which the grand marshal was Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles of Boston, moved exactly at noon from its resting place on Main street. The route was as follows: Through Main street to Prichard, to Academy, to Main, to Water, to First, to Middle, to Fifth, to Water, to Main, to Summer, to Driveway Park, where the big parade was disbanded.

The streets were lined with enthusiastic thousands. The light breeze made things bearable, and the overcast sky shielded the sturdy paraders from the sun's fierce rays.

The Eagles plainly appreciated their welcome, giving back cheer for cheer to the people along the route. Never has this society been accorded a more enthusiastic welcome than that given them to-day.

Governor's staff as guests of honor, the Governor's council, at which the sixth annual banquet of the Fitchburg Aerie was scheduled last night, presented a memorable appearance.

THE TOWN THAT WAS BORN AGAIN—What a live young Mayor can do for a dead town is shown in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS GET PASS TO U. S

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The United States Government granted permission today for the Fifth Royal Highlanders and the Governor-General's Foot Guards of Canada to cross the boundary line into the country to participate in the Lake Champlain tercentenary celebration, July 7.

BAN ON SCORE OF GAMES TO STOP GAMING

Because of the fact that they have given a great impetus to gambling by means of the handbook, the ban has been placed on the posting of baseball scores by innings, and the results of other sporting events, in the cafes and bowling alleys located in stations 2 and 4.

The control of such matters is left to the captains in charge of the various precincts. Captain Edward F. Gaskin is in charge of Station 2 and Captain Laurence Cain of Station 4. In accordance with the orders promulgated by these commanders the blackboards in this large downtown cafe district where patrons were wont to follow the games and occasionally place a bet on the result, were blank to-day.

When the matter was broached to Police Commissioner O'Meara he said that he had nothing to do with it, but that it was left to the discretion of the captains in the various precincts.

The cause of the banishment of many of the score boards in the business section of the city, it was learned, was the increase in gambling. Hand-book men have been hanging about the boards. It was declared, and what is known as a "do and don't" game was carried on.

In this case the professional gambler feels that a player in a ball game will not do something for instance, for him to make a hit, will not make first, will not make a run, and so on. He lays his bets his way in favor of the gambler and the information, who is the agent, is then carried away through his ignorance and exhilaration, is consequently "trimmed."

BRYAN'S SON WEDS GIRL NOT YET TWENTY

GRAND LAKE, Col., June 24.—William Jennings Bryan, Jr., son of William J. Bryan, the Democratic leader of Lincoln, Neb., was married here at 8 a. m. to-day to Miss Helen Berger, only daughter of Alexander Berger, the rich Milwaukee brewer's dealer. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harry S. Huntington of the Creste, Neb., Methodist Church, at Kinikinick lodge, which is owned by Mrs. F. D. Lovering, under a great pine tree on the shore of Grand Lake.

Miss Ethel Isbell of Lincoln was bridesmaid, and Samuel Berger, brother of the bride, was best man.

After partaking of the wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan left for a little honeymoon trip among the pines near Grand Lake, where they will spend their honeymoon. After the honeymoon they will go to Tucson, Ariz. where Bryan will continue his studies and take up his permanent residence when he is admitted to the bar.

The son of the thirty-fourfold candidate is not yet twenty-two, and his only accomplished his second year of study at Nebraska University. Miss Berger is under twenty, but they have been sweethearts since childhood.

Miss Berger is an only daughter. Her father, a multimillionaire, who she was recently more than a baby. For years she has been living under the shadow of the White Plague.

Recently the physicians warned Mr. Berger it was imperative that his daughter should go a resident of Colorado, or the city was to be forced.

Distressed by her threatened ailment and by the menace of severance from her sweetheart, Miss Berger proposed a hasty marriage. She pleaded so successfully that both Mr. Bryan and Mr. Berger were won over.

CARDINAL GIBBONS: "I LOVE AMERICA"

NEW YORK, June 24.—At the thirty-ninth annual commencement of St. John's College at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, Cardinal Gibbons, in red robes, presided. The greater part of the evening was taken up with addresses by the honor men, and the cardinal spoke briefly, beginning his address with the words: "America, with all her faults I love her."

GASTON HOME, SEES BEST OF TIMES AHEAD

William A. Gaston, president of the Shawmut National Bank, who arrived from abroad on the Cunard liner Ivernia to-day, says he looks for a prosperous Fall and Winter for American business men and that the business prosperity of the country will advance by leaps and bounds as soon as the tariff and other Washington matters are settled.

"I am somewhat out of touch with affairs in the business world, having spent most of the time since the 18th of May on shipboard or railway trains," said Mr. Gaston. "However, I believe that the outlook here in the United States is very encouraging. Despite the long debates in Congress over the tariff bill and unsettled conditions that always prevail while the tariff bill is under discussion, business seems to be gaining every day in this country.

"I look for a prosperous Fall and Winter for American business men. I am confident that when the tariff question has been all been settled and the other matters pending in Washington have been adjusted that the business prosperity of the country, which has been slowly advancing for some months past, will advance by leaps and bounds. There seems to be no doubt that there will be bumper crops this fall, and that is always a leading factor in American business. Business men everywhere seem to be alert and ready to snatch at every opportunity, and even make opportunities, to effect a return of prosperous times.

"With the spirit that is abroad in the land to-day I believe that it is impossible to delay the coming of a very satisfactory business era.

"I am sorry that I cannot say as much for business abroad. While on the continent I did not get an opportunity to learn much about business conditions, but in England business men are very sad. The new taxes are a great burden. Curiously enough the new tax bill has not passed the Parliament as yet, but the government has been collecting the taxes since the first of May on the supposition that it will pass."

Asked about the passage of the New Haven holding bill, Mr. Gaston made no comment when told that it became law. He appeared interested in the proposed national corporation tax, but said that he was not prepared to discuss it.

CAMBRIDGE HONORS COLUMBIA SCHOLAR

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., June 24.—The honorary degree of doctor of science was conferred to-day upon Professor E. B. Wilson of Columbia University, New York, by Cambridge University. Honorary degrees were also conferred upon Prince Roland Bonaparte and nineteen other delegates to the Darwin commemoration.

DEATH GRIPS ARTIST BIRNEY ON AUTO RIDE

SARATOGA, June 24.—William Verplanck Birney of New York, one of the most famous of American artists, whose work was equally well known on both sides of the Atlantic, was stricken with cerebral apoplexy as his hands grasped the steering wheel of his automobile, which was passing along one of the suburban streets. Death was instantaneous.

His wife, who was by his side, did not even realize he was ill until the machine swerved from the road. Then she gave one quick glance at her husband's dead face, and, realizing the truth, jumped from the auto barely in time to save her life. The car toppled over into a ditch and was wrecked. The body of the painter rolled away in time to prevent being pinned under the capsized auto.

Birney, who was fifty years old, had been spending a two weeks' outing here. He was born in Cincinnati, and from childhood showed talent for the work, which later earned him international repute. He studied in this country and abroad and was well known at national and international exhibitions. One of his best known pictures is "The After Dinner Story."

FOURTEEN SCORCHERS ARE FINED $20 EACH

Continuing their crusade against automobile overspeeding, the Metropolitan Park Police at Revere summoned nineteen men to the Chelsea Police Court before Judge Bosson to-day. For running his car at a rate of more than fifty miles an hour, Arthur C. White of Boston was fined $20. Others who were fined a like amount were David F. Farnham of Swampscott, Clarence M. Cobb of Brookline, Norman Marshall of West Newton, Fulton Cutting of Cambridge, Rufus E. Fort of Tennessee, Ralph S. Adams of Boston, Franklin King of Boston, William M. Pattern of Salem, Joseph E. Mayville of Swampscott, George W. Coleman of Cambridge, Edward E. Frank of Medford, Archibald Matonson of Boston and Darius N. Palmer of Boston.

Robert S. Cantman of San Antonio, Tex., paid $15; Richard W. Pitch of Salem, $10; George Sturges of Nahant, $10, Frank J. C. Ferris of Tennessee had his case placed on file, while L. E. Blood of Boston, who was fined $20, appealed.

METROPOLITAN ADDS VALUE TO POLICIES

The latest periodic statement of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is out, and states that in ten years the company has reduced the ratio of expense, to premium income on its business in all departments, 15 per cent. It is stated in this connection: "These great gains are being used to increase the benefits by adding on all policies in force since January 1, 1907. The report also states that during the past sixteen years the concessions and bonuses in the industrial department alone are equivalent to a gift outright of eighteen millions of dollars."

CLEVELAND DID SIGN, SAYS BRANDENBURG

NEW YORK, June 24.—Broughton Brandenburg, charged with grand larceny in accepting $500 from the New York Times for an article alleged to have contained the forged signature of the late Grover Cleveland, took the witness stand in his own behalf to-day before Justice Fitzgerald.

Brandenburg declared that Mr. Cleveland had approved the article and affixed his signature to it. He said the signature now in possession of the district attorney, which is said to be the one attached to the Times' article, was not that of the ex-President.

The attorneys for Brandenburg announced that the defense had been seriously crippled through the death of Benjamin F. Kelly, a handwriting expert, one of the star witnesses.

"On March 3, 1908," said Brandenburg, "the article for the New York Times is now questioned, was begun. At that time Mr. Cleveland complained to me of being bothered by interviewers. I asked him to put his political feelings into a series of articles and let me sell them. He seemed to be very well pleased with the idea and I suggested three topics.

"We discussed my suggestion in a general way, and Mr. Cleveland then asked me about compensation for the articles. He told me what he had been paid for other articles, and I told him he had been taken advantage of. I offered him $2,000 in cash for a series of articles, and said I would take my compensation out of what I got for them above that sum. He was pleased with the idea."

The witness said that he drafted an articles from Mr. Cleveland's notes, that he submitted it to the ex-president, who approved it and then signed his name to it. He said this signature was not the same that is now in the possession of the district attorney. Brandenburg declared he had fled from New York because under the circumstances he expected to be convicted and that he wanted to get together enough money to pay for his defence.

YOUNG MINER SEEKS BRIDE IN CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge widows, as well as eligible young women who have not yet married, are deeply interested in the advertisement published over the name of John W. Grant of Truckee, Cal., which represents him as being anxiously searching for a wife. They believe that his selection of a Cambridge paper as an advertising medium is not without significance in their favor. Grant, who advertises that he has no objection to a widow, describes himself as thirty-four years old and possessed of $25,000, made in mining in Nevada. The publishers of the paper have had hundreds of inquiries, made by young women, about Grant.

THIRD ATTEMPT TO FIRE LYNN BLOCK

Barnard Camenker of Lynn reported to the police of that city to-day that an attempt had been made during the night to set fire to the three-story [illegible] No. 107 Blossom street, which he owns and where he lives with his wife and five children. He has a grocery store on the ground floor. He reports that twice before he has found fires in the cellar. This time the steps were saturated with oil.

TWO SCHOLARSHIPS FOR BOSTON BOYS

The closing exercises at the Boston High School of Commerce, Worthington street, Fenway, were held in the school hall, which was filled with relatives and friends of the students.

The interesting program was directed by the head master, Frank V. Thompson. The school and American colors formed the scheme of decorations. During the exercises Peter A. Doyle and Paul Raymond Williams, who won the Douglas American traveling scholarships offered by the business men of Boston, received the same amidst the plaudits of the audience.

AID AT LAST FOR HENPECKED ONES

NEW YORK, June 24.—Magistrate House of the Harlem Court announced a new department to-day which will deal with husbands who are henpecked, janitors who are jumped upon by irate tenants and others of that downtrodden ilk. He thinks lost weather requires such a tribunal. The first session will be held to-morrow.

THE GYPSY HOROSCOPE—From the French of Phillip Maquet, containing a dramatic episode as fascinating as any in Dumas's works. This story will appear in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

LEXINGTON PARK IS PLACE FOR A PICNIC

These are first-class picnic days at Lexington Park, the wooded recreation grounds of the town of Lexington, where one of the biggest managerial ventures in the country rooms through fenced-in pastures in plain sight where tables, seats, swings, toboggans and merry-go-rounds are free and the little theatre, with fine summer shows, is free to visitors every afternoon.

The SUNDAY AMERICAN free ticket gives tea-cent admission to the park and the only way one can then make of his money is at the pavilion and the mammoth restaurant and ballroom and in the theatre during the evenings. Clip the Lexington Park admission ticket from next Sunday's AMERICAN and be a guest of the paper next Tuesday or Friday, day or evening.

GIRL FAT, MAN THIN, ELOPERS

NEW YORK, June 24.—A fifteen-year-old girl, who weighs 200 pounds, was in the Children's Court because she had eloped with a man twice her age and about half her weight. Rosie Dagnolia Manente, of No. 72 East One Hundred and First street, and he is Enrico Rossi, of unknown address.

The arrangements for the wedding had been made, with the consent of Adolfina's parents, but her father had demanded a certificate from Italy showing that Rossi was legally free. When this failed to arrive last Monday, the day set for the wedding, Manente refused to permit the marriage.

Angelina and Rossi immediately vanished, but were found at No. 200 Forsyth street. The girl was arrested. Rossi disappeared.

Justice Olmsted decided that the marriage should be performed and ordered a search for Rossi.

TO RUSH SUGAR TRUST TRIAL

NEW YORK, June 24.—The government will rush the trial of the higher officials of the Sugar Trust after indictments are returned to-morrow by the federal grand jury. The greatest possible speed is being made in this first trust prosecution under the Taft régime and the government authorities will attempt to have the trials set and heard at the quickest moment possible.

According to the manual of statistics for 1909 the directors of the American Sugar Refining Company at present are: Arthur Donner, George H. Frazier, Horace Havemeyer, John Mahey, Henry C. Mott, Henry Moss, John E. Parsons, Charles H. Senff and W. B. Thomas. The government will bring after the directors, and to-morrow's indictment will only be the forerunners of others.

The present indictments are aimed at those responsible for the alleged destruction of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, its threatening rival in Pennsylvania, and the ultimate closing of the plant.

PITTSBURG SOCIETY IS NOW BLUSHING

PITTSBURG, June 24.—George Weiss, son of Matthew Weiss, a wealthy restaurant proprietor here, is being sued for divorce by his wife, Julia Kelly Weiss. She alleges, among other things, that her husband has been too effeminate; that he even used her clothes to dress himself as a swell young woman, and thus disguised has frequently passed himself off on social gatherings, even at exclusive women's parties at Pittsburg. The charge has caused much excitement in certain circles in Pittsburg where the presence of an "unknown" young woman at gatherings is now recalled.

GRADUATION IN CITY SCHOOLS

To-day is graduation day in the public schools. First in the day's events was that of the East Boston High School, at 9 o'clock. Thirty-three graduates received diplomas, sixteen of them girls. There were twenty-nine fourth-year diplomas and four third-year. Cudworth prizes were awarded in four. The Boston Normal School exercises took place at 9:30. President William E. Huntington of Boston University and Head Master Wallace C. Boyden were the speakers, and the diplomas were awarded by George G. Brock of the School Committee. A class of 191 was graduated.

Exercises at the Charlestown High School took place at 11 o'clock. The students were addressed by William Lindsay and the choral singing was under the direction of John A. O'Shea. Diplomas were given to thirty-six, of whom twenty-four were in the fourth-year class.

The closing exercises of the Girls' Latin School took place at 2:30 p. m. Diplomas were awarded to forty-seven and certificates to two. The speakers are Mr. Chandler. James DeNormandie, the Rev. Theodore C. Wells and Miss Mary C. C. Goddard.

Exercises at the Brighton High will take place at 7:30 this evening, and the program is one of the longest in the city schools. The diplomas will be presented by George C. Brock, S. H. Ely. WRECKED SCHOONER PULLED FROM ROCKS

NEW BEDFORD, June 24.—News has reached here that the schooner Hartney W., which went ashore on Cuttyhunk several days ago, was floated by the wrecking lighter Tasco. The schooner, with her hull badly damaged, is in Cuttyhunk Harbor and a diver is busily patching the jagged holes made by the rocks. She will be towed to New London.

ROCKEFELLER ADVANCES SON

NEW YORK, June 24.—John D. Rockefeller came all the way in from the coast golf links at Tarrytown to attend the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Trust. His object, so Wall street declared, was to push his son and heir up one more notch in the councils of the gigantic corporation he controls.

It is his intention it is said that his son eventually shall occupy the position he himself holds as head of the company. In that way he hopes to continue the presidency and control of the greatest trust the world ever knew in a direct line of succession from the man who founded it.

At any rate John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was elected, or promoted, from the position of ordinary director to that of vice president, succeeding the late Henry H. Rogers in an office only one step removed from that of his father.

In addition to being a vice-president of the oil trust, young Rockefeller represents his father's vast interests in the billion dollar steel trust, is a member of the board of managers of his father's very profitable Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, and is a director of the American Linseed Trust.

DRIVER AND HORSES OVER EMBANKMENT

A large two-horse lipcart used to convey gravel from the Pleasant street crossing to the rear of Commercial street, Malden, went over the embankment at that place, and the driver, Benjamin Doherty of Pearl street, Malden, and the horses had a narrow escape from being killed. The cart and horses fell over the embankment, throwing Doherty off the seat and narrowly escaped crushing him.

FROM SWEDEN TO WED; BALKS

Although Augusta Westberg came 3,000 miles from her home in Sweden to marry John Nelson of Roxbury, yet her love for her sweetheart has cooled. Now she wants to go back again and the wedding bells scheduled to ring will not ring.

They had been childhood friends in Sweden. She promised to come. When she arrived here he was waiting on the pier for her, and on making certain of her arrival he went in search of a marriage license.

Everything was ready for the ceremony, when to the surprise of all concerned the young woman refused to wed. The only reason she gave was that she had thought the matter over and decided that it was best for both. Entreaty on the part of her lover failed to produce a change.

The immigration officials are at a loss as to what to do. If the young woman remains obdurate in her intention to return, the steamship officials will have to take her back free of charge. This may not be very easier to do. Provided she can get work, it is believed that she will be allowed to stay here if she desires.

'WATER CURE' FOR HARRIMAN

SEMMERING, Austria, June 24.—E. H. Harriman and his family are at the Hotel Panhans, a mile north of the railway station, a picturesque location 3,600 feet above the sea.

Mr. Harriman had the hotel physician in attendance for consultation. Professor Strumpell, the famous specialist on diseases of the nerves and internal complaints, who examined the railway magnate in Vienna.

The professor has found that Mr. Harriman is suffering from a slight nervous complaint, which was brought on by overwork, and he has prescribed the cold water cure.

Mr. Harriman will begin that treatment immediately, and expects to continue it for perhaps three weeks.

MRS. BELMONT TO SELL GIFTS

NEWPORT, June 24.—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont will sell at auction to-morrow the last belongings of the late Mrs. Sidney W. K. Vanderbilt at the time of their divorce sixteen years ago. The goods advertised for sale consist of carriages, harnesses and stable equipment made for the most part in Paris.

The identity of the person offering the goods for sale had been a mystery until the handsome landaus, victorias, carts and glass passed through this city from the Belmont stables to the auction grounds. The Vanderbilt monogram was on each vehicle and each piece of harness.

To the older residents who remember the days when the Vanderbilts were living happily here, there was something of pathos in the procession of empty equipages.

LABOR PLANS TO DEFEAT SOLONS

Labor politics, with the possibility of action being taken that will have a strong bearing on the political future of the Representatives and Senators who live in that district, is expected to play a prominent part in the meeting of the Chelsea Central Labor Union tonight.

The organization has decided to investigate the record of Chelsea's representatives in both houses on Beacon Hill, particularly their attitude toward the eight-hour and other labor measures defeated at the legislative session which has just closed. The leaders of the movement say there will be neither fear nor favor shown in passing judgment on the politicians who will be placed under the searchlight.

FRIDAY ARROW SALE

Every Friday we hold an Arrow Sale, when we mark down for quick selling all odd lots, broken sizes, single pieces, samples, goods soiled or crushed in handling or used in window displays, and goods that for any reason have been slow in selling.

By this method we are able to keep our stocks fresh, clean and correct in every way.

Owing to the prevalence of exaggerated comparisons in Boston, comparative values in this store's advertising are entirely omitted—even in describing bargains. Hence the name —"Non-Comparative Price" store.

EXPLOSION IN MINE KILLS 17

WEHRUM, Pa., June 24.—As the result of an explosion of gas in mine No. 4 of the Lackawanna Coal and Coke Company seventeen miners were killed and sixteen injured. All of those killed were foreigners excepting one. With few exceptions the injured were Americans.

Superintendent A. M. Johnson said that while the mine has always been regarded as non-gaseous, the explosion was due to the ignition of a pocket of gas by the open lamp of a miner. "The mine has been as free from gas for the past six years," said the superintendent, "that the State inspectors have permitted the use of open lamps."

Those in the mine to-day had entered the shaft for their daily allowance of coal for family use.

With wet handkerchiefs tied over their faces, the first small party of mine rescue relief party started down the shaft. Of the eight who started four came back. The others, overcome with black damp, were carried to the surface with ropes.

A second and a third party entered, only to be driven back by the deadly gases in the lower levels.

Oxygen, sent by the Cumberland steel works, aided the searchers, and with safety helmets a fourth rescue party succeeded in bringing twelve bodies to the surface. Later five more corpses were recovered.

JOY RIDES COST NEW YORK HEAVILY

NEW YORK, June 24.—New York city is paying upward of $500,000 a year to satisfy the fancy of its officials and their friends for "joy rides" in city automobiles, and to meet the demand of these officials who turn their machines over to their families for private use. The city owns about 300 automobiles, good, bad and indifferent. It is the largest owner of cars in the country, if not in the world. The worn-out machines are not sold or discarded, but are turned over to subordinates, who pile up bills for repairs and use the cars for pleasure trips evenings and on Sundays and holidays.

TO SEPARATE WOMEN FROM MEN IN COURT

The detention room in the Suffolk County Courthouse, which was condemned by Alderman Hale and Attridge as "indecent and inadequate," will be enlarged, according to the commission on rebuilding of the courthouse.

A wire cage or partition separates the men from the women. There are no separate accommodations for the latter, who are obliged to sit crowded in the female pen not more than 8 by 8 in size. It is now proposed to provide a separate room for the women.

CANNOT BUY 13TH BABY BORN ON 13TH

NEW YORK, June 24.—Edward Yates and wife of Trenton, parents of thirteen children, the thirteenth of whom was born on the thirteenth of this month and is the fourth girl in the family, received an offer of $10,000 each for the new arrival. One of the offers included also a trip for the parents to the State of Nebraska, in order that they might see the wealthy foster child, but this made no difference to them. They declined. Even ten times $10,000 would not tempt them to part with he baby, although they are poor and in need of funds.

WHILE OTHERS MELT, MAN FREEZES HAND

NEWBURYPORT, June 24.—Clarence Lunt of the South End, his face blue with the cold and teeth chattering, entered the office of a local physician while the temperature was in the minutes. A bond hanging himself called upon to treat Lunt for three badly-frozen fingers. As will be readily understood, Lunt did not freeze his fingers while walking on the street, but while working in the cold-storage plant in which he was employed.

CROW'S STOLEN GOLD FOUND IN STEEPLE

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—An old crow's nest torn out of the steeple of St. Agatha's Catholic Church, contained a $5 gold piece evidently there a long time. How the money got there was a mystery, that didn't worry the steeplejacks that found it, but they think some crow did it there long ago.

"CHICK" FRASER TO SUE.

MILWAUKEE, June 24.— "Chick" Fraser, the former Cub pitcher, is in Milwaukee consulting lawyers about bringing suit against Charles W. Murphy for the back salary which the national commission refused to award him. He is to become a Milwaukee resident and the suit probably will be started here.

FAVOR CHARLES RIVER CANAL

A new canal from the Charles River Basin to the Warren Bridge is proposed by the Harbor and Land Commission as a solution of the trouble that has arisen between the shipping interests of the city and the Boston & Maine Railroad over the obstruction to navigation caused by the road's numerous low bridges at the mouth of the river.

The proposition was made to the local board of United States engineers at an adjourned hearing on the trouble held in the Federal Building.

In presenting the plan Chairman George E. Smith said that the new canal would eliminate several of the bridges and also a large area of piling, affording a straight waterway from fifty to seventy-five feet wide from the Charles River Dam to the inner harbor.

President Lucius Tuttle of the road, who was present, replied that the road had confidence in the reasonable action of the War Department and would put itself entirely in its hands.

COTTON COUP BY WHEAT KING

CHICAGO, June 24.—James A. Patten, "Wheat King," has added $500,000 to his personal fortune by a deal in cotton for October delivery. He has just wound up the operations.

As far back as the first days of Spring he outlined a plan for the purchase of an enormous quantity of cotton. He chose the October option for his speculation, and the New York Cotton Exchange for the mart wherein to stage his play. Placing an order here and another there, he concealed the fact that so much cotton was being bought for one man. Gossip on the Board of Trade has it that he finally found himself long more than 200,000 bales bought at prices ranging from $10.25 to $10.40. The price crept up from day to day, and made a new high record for the season at $11.28.

Patten started to sell at $10.90, and sold as quickly as he could while the price ranged from that to $11.10. It was said on the board that he has sold all or nearly all, and he clear of the cotton market on his deal. His profit is estimated at $2.50 per bale at the lowest.

BANK BURGLAR GONG RINGS FALSE ALARM

The burglar alarm on the Commonwealth Trust Company's building at Summer and Devonshire streets began to clang shortly after 8 a. m. to-day, causing a good deal of excitement in the neighborhood. It was heard several blocks away. Heads popped from windows and people gathered from all directions. The watchman explained to the crowd that he had forgotten to switch off the alarm when he unlocked the doors for the scrubwomen.

A want advt. is often the road to fortune.

WINS STREET FIGHT.

Judge Richardson has ordered a decree in favor of the plaintiffs in the suit brought in the Superior Court by the owners on the northerly side of Otis place, Roslindale, against those on the opposite side of the place. A dispute arose as to the correct location of the street, and the defendants placed obstructions in the street as the plaintiffs claim it to run. The court has ordered the removal of the obstructions.

SHORT SKIRTS FOR RADCLIFFE SENIORS

The Radcliffe seniors celebrated their class day with a spread in the yard, Fay House and Agassiz House.

The seniors are to have a regulation dress for all exercises of the commencement season. There are to be no low or Dutch necks or short sleeves. There is to be even a particular kind of necktie to wear, and all dresses are to be two and a half inches from the floor. Unless these rules are carried out to the letter a girl is liable to be sent to her room at the last minute to don the proper garb.

THRONGS FLOCK TO HARVARD FOR BIG CLASS DAY

Harvard was invaded to-day by thousands of relatives and friends of the graduating class and undergraduates in anticipation of the events of class day to-morrow.

Scheduled for to-day were the Harvard, Yale baseball game and the senior spread and the dance in Memorial Hall to-night. The entire hall is reserved for dancers. Supper is spread on the lawn.

The following patronesses add grace to the affair: Mrs. Charles S. Bird, Mrs. Robert S. Bradley, Mrs. L. Tucker Burr, Mrs. William R. Castle, Jr., Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Mrs. George C. Cutler, Mrs. Richard H. Dana, Mrs. Joseph Dorr, Mrs. Charles W. Eliot, Mrs. Eben S. Draper, Mrs. Robert H. Gardiner, Mrs. Byron S. Harlbut, Mrs. William Lawrence, Mrs. A. Lawrence Lowell, Mrs. Norris H. Morgan, Mrs. William L. Putnam, Mrs. James J. Storrow, Mrs. John E. Thayer, Mrs. William G. Thayer, Mrs. Washington B. Thomas, Mrs. Joseph G. Thorp, Mrs. William W. Vaughan, Mrs. Samuel D. Warren, Mrs. K. G. T. Webster, Mrs. Barrett Wendell and Mrs. H. Holton Wood.

To attend the Class Day ceremonies many hundreds of the most prominent people in the United States are in Boston. Hundreds of them came earlier than usual so that they might attend the "Joan of Arc" performance in the Stadium. The hotels are all crowded.

The Senior Class, since the erection of the Stadium, has held the Ivy Oration in that structure, and as soon as the "Joan of Arc" performance was concluded hundreds of men were put to work clearing away stage and scenery in order that it might not interfere with the Class Day programme. The work of weeks is being destroyed. It is expected the Stadium will present its usual appearance when the classes march into it on Friday afternoon.

Burr First Marshal.

The first marshal at Class Day is Francis Hardon Burr, for four years idol of the football team and last year its captain. Burr is a Brookline boy.

The second marshal is Lawrence Kirby Lunt of Colorado, an oarsman who has been three years in the varsity crew. In his sophomore year he was elected president of his class and last year was vice-president of the Harvard Union.

Edward Putnam Currier, the third marshal, comes from Wellesley Hills. He is captain of the baseball team and has been catcher on the varsity nine for three years.

Phineas McCray Henry, the Ivy Orator, comes from Iwo Maloe. He has been president of the Harvard Crimson and a member of the Student Council.

Edward Tubbs Wentworth, the orator, comes from Batavia, N. Y. He has been a prize debater and speaker in college, and was a member of the varsity lacrosse team.

Harford W. H. Powell, Jr., the odist, comes from Newport, R. I. He has been an editor of the Lampoon and one of the officers of the Advocate Board. Last year he won the Lloyd McK m Garrison prize for the best poem by an undergraduate.

The chorister is Philip Greeley Clapp of Roxbury. He has been the leader of the Pierian Sodality Orchestra. He won the Francis Bott prize for the best piece of concerted music by an undergraduate.

Class Day Programme.

The programme of Class Day is the same as that of former years. The seniors assemble in front of Memorial Hall march to Appleton Chapel for divine service. The class exercises take place in Sanders Theatre.

Following a band concert in the yard the seniors march around the yard, viewing the various buildings and the trees.

Then they march to the Stadium, where the ivy oration and music by the glee club is given.

LOWELL WOMAN IN IRISH LAKE TRAGEDY

It was learned to-day that one of the eleven victims of the drowning accident on lower Killarney Lake, Ireland, yesterday afternoon, was Mrs. H. W. Coburn of Lowell, wife of Dr. Coburn of that city. Her name was incorrectly given in the first cable dispatches as "Miss M. H. Coburn of Massachusetts."

Mrs. Coburn makes the third Massachusetts victim of the tragedy. The other two are Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lougheed of No. 28 High street, Charlestown. Three bodies of the eleven victims were recovered to-day, but had not been identified this afternoon.

Healthful, delicious and cleanly prepared. Ask your grocer for a 10c. trial packet of "Salada" Tea.

ASLEEP ON SANDS OF NORTH END PARK

MADNESS AND DEATH BY HEAT

other ways did heroic service to assuage their suffering.

About the kiosk on the Common, where one might see the figures as to how hot one was, there was always a crowd. The diversion of the heat wave, scrambles for benches, sly attempts to get onto the green grass and take a sleep made the park more than ordinarily lively.

Around the Frog Pond there were scores of boys, half a dozen at a time wading knee deep in the cooling, if somewhat unlovely water.

On the ferryboats not much attention was given to full dress. A man remarkably tattooed attracted great attention. The upper section of his body was covered slightly with a running shirt. This brought into full play his artistic decorations. There were not only the usual depictions from the need of the sailor, consisting of anchors, ships, initials and so forth on his breast but there was the figure of a pretty ballet girl in the act of kicking the silk hat of an imaginary moon.

Many Children Ill.

The doctors in the various hospitals, especially in the outdoor departments, were kept on the jump. This was particularly the case where babies are treated. Mothers with crying infants flocked to these havens of treatment.

Many of the mothers had not the least idea of what was the matter with their children and pleaded with the doctors to do something to save their lives. In most cases simple treatment restored the little ones to conditions of comparative comfort.

The temperature climbed steadily in spite of showers and clouds during the forenoon.

ONE DEAD, THREE PROSTRATED, IS RECORD IN LYNN

LYNN, June 24.—One death and three prostrations from the heat was the record in this city and vicinity up to noon to-day. The victims were:

DEAD.

MRS. ABAGAIL STOCKER, 83 years old, of No. 64 Middlesex avenue, Swampscott.

PROSTRATIONS.

CARLETON GAMMONS, 18 student at Burdett College. Taken to Lynn Hospital.

SIMON LISBACH, 34, of No. 4 Ballard street. Overcome at the General Electric works, West Lynn. Taken to Lynn Hospital.

FRED SMITH, 36, of No. 102 William street, Lynn. Overcome in the factory of the Lynn Lasting Company. Taken to the Lynn Hospital.

This is one of the hottest days of the year here and thousands of shoe workers in the big factories have suffered intensely.

SEVEN DIE IN NEW YORK; MANY ARE IN HOSPITALS

NEW YORK, June 24.—Seven more deaths due to the hot wave, which continued to-day, were reported by the police of New York and vicinity. Suffering throughout the city was intense, and the hospitals were filled with victims, many of whom were in such a serious condition that their recovery was doubtful.

Among the victims was Mrs. Ida Jackson, who jumped to death from the roof of her home, No. 100 East Eighty-eighth street, when crazed by the heat. George Anderson, two years old, was accidentally dropped by his mother from a window of their home, No. 156 Twelfth street, Brooklyn. Mrs. Anderson was holding the baby out of the window for a breath of fresh air.

Thousands upon thousands flocked to the seashore and spent the night on the sand. The beach of Coney Island proved the most popular, and when darkness fell the sand was black with men, women and children. The police reserves patrolled the beach all night to guard the sleepers.

SOCIETY TELLS HOW TO PROVIDE FOR THE HORSES

President Henry B. Hill of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals gives the AMERICAN the following hints for the care of horses during hot weather:

"Use horses as you would yourself; do not overwork them; do not hurry them, or do not overload the wagons as you would during cooler weather.

"Wash the heads and mouth with a sponge but do not put too much water on the animal. Give the horse all he wants to eat.

"Hats are very good and we have been giving away all that we had left over from last year. We have had a great call for hats and it is gratifying to see the great number of horses that have hats on.

"It is well to do away with check reins unless in case of necessity.

"In case the animal is overcome, loosen the harness and in case of emergency call the society's ambulance at Richmond 372."

'APPALACHIANS' TO WALK ON SATURDAY

The Appalachian Mountain Club will hold a walk Saturday through the Winchester and Arlington hills. It will be a rough walk, the distance being about five miles and through the famous Shaker Glen. The party will board the 2 p. m. train from the North station and stop at Wedgemere. It is probable that most of the party will walk back to Boston. C. L. Bancroft of Wakefield will be the guide.

BABY DROWNS IN BUCKET OF WATER

PASSAIC, N. J., June 24.—Herbert Baron, one-year-old son of Edward Baron, of No. 53 Second street, fell into a pail of water and was drowned.

The child was left alone for a few moments and fell headforemost into the bucket.

CRAZED SLAYER ANXIOUS ONLY ABOUT FAMILY

John J. Murphy of Somerville, the mad butcher, who killed five of his fellow workmen and was sentenced to the State Hospital for the Insane at Bridgewater, has written to his wife. The letter is interesting as showing the mental condition of the man, who evidently does not realize his situation and is anxious only about the welfare of his family.

The letter reads:

State Farm, Mass.

Dear Wife:

I hope this letter will find you and the children in good health. I don't feel all right in my mind yet, but I hope, with God's help, that I will be myself soon again.

I worry a great deal about you and the children, but I heard that you received some assistance from some kind hearted people who read of your destitution in the BOSTON AMERICAN. May God reward them for what help they done for you.

I wish you could come and see me this week if you can. I will close now with love to you and the children. Bring me a prayer book when you come to see me. No more at present.

From your loving husband,

(Signed) JOHN MURPHY.

P. S.—Take the train at the South Union Station in Boston and buy a ticket for Titicut and the asylum is a few minutes' walk from the depot. The fare is 60 cents.

Another letter written by a reader of the BOSTON AMERICAN was received to-day. It tells its own story:

June 23, 1909.

The BOSTON AMERICAN,
80 Summer street,
Boston, Mass.

Having read in last Sunday's AMERICAN of the pitiful and deplorable condition of the family of the demented John Murphy of Somerville, where his family is left without father and without money to meet the necessities of life, as a subscriber of paper, I feel that an appeal to the public through the columns of your paper, which is always willing and ready to assist the poor and homeless, for subscriptions, no matter how small, will meet with public approval and the everlasting gratitude of a heart-broken family.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) HUGH GALLEN.
No. 602 Broadway, Somerville, Mass.

SOBBING WOMAN HOLDS UP STEAMER

Captain Mitchell of the steamer Ransom B. Fuller stopped the Fuller in a mix-up of other craft to put a sobbing woman ashore. The Fuller had pulled out of her berth at Union Wharf when a woman began to scream that she was being carried away against her will. She hadn't heard the "all-ashore" warnings. Captain Mitchell moved the steamer down the harbor and slowed down off Lewis Wharf. The woman by this time was hysterical. The captain ported the Fuller's wheels and brought the tug Leader alongside. The situation was quickly explained and the woman was helped down a ladder raised against the side of the steamer.

MURDER SUSPECT FREE.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Sigmund Goldberg, a painter, was freed in the Coroner's Court from connection with the murder of Samuel Bersin, whose body was cut up and found in different parts of the city recently. Goldberg was arrested on the alleged identification by the boy, who was left to look after the package which later was found to contain the torso of the murdered man. The boy could not re-establish his identification.

THREAT OF DEATH IN SIGEL CASE IS TOLD BY WITNESS CHONG

the two men on the proscribed list, but both Chong Sing and Chu Gain, nevertheless, have received the secret notification from the Chinese society that deals out death to informers that makes them marked men.

Chu Gain became so frightened to-day that he had four sturdy Chinese placed on guard at his restaurant on Mott street to keep out all men of his own race, no matter what pretext they put forward to gain admittance.

Ask City for Protection.

He also asked the permission of the District Attorney to leave the city until he was wanted as a witness in the Sigel murder case. Chong Sing was kept in the House of Detention today after he had been subjected to further questioning by the authorities. He did not feel safe from the assassin's knife or bullet even under the city's guardianship.

The motive for the murder, Chong Sing has told the police, was jealousy caused by the statement of the girl made the night of the new famous party at her home that she was madly in love with Chu Gain and wanted to marry him.

Ling, who was drunk, went away from the house vowing vengeance, according to the statement of Sing. He either threatened the girl to compel her to come to see him at his room the next morning or wrote or telegraphed her that she must come.

Slain in Jealous Rage.

Arriving there, it is believed that he again pleaded with her to marry him, and when she refused he carried out the foul vengeance which he had planned.

Under the gruelling strain of the "third degree" Sing has been forced to admit that he held the hands of the dying girl when the spark of life flickered out, thus contradicting a statement in the first confession that he did not see the girl until she was dead.

This the police regard as most important in connecting him with the crime.

"You know you have not told the truth about this matter," shouted the old Chinese interpreter in the language of the Orient.

"Me tell all," replied Chong Sing in English.

"Do you mean that you have already told everything or that you are going to tell more now?"

"Me know more; me tell more now; me feel girl hand before die."

"Then you were in the room when she was killed," thundered Assistant District Attorney Ward, who had conducted the examination on the previous day.

"No," replied Chong Sing, rising from his chair as though to emphasize what he said.

The world-wide hunt for the alleged slayer of the pretty missionary continues, and the police think that Ling will soon be arrested. They have great hopes that a new clew received from Baltimore to-day, which is based on the contents of a letter sent in Washington by the ninety days wail, will eventually reveal his whereabouts.

The exact contents of the letter have not been divulged, but the police are known to be as follows:

That the Sigel girl was in Baltimore on June 5 or 6; that the work of packing the body in the trunk had been completed; that an attempt would be made to ship the trunk containing the body by way of Long Tong's stores in Philadelphia; that Chong Sing was at West Gaiway, N. Y.; that the letter was unsigned, and the writer told the recipient when and where to address him in his right name.

If true, substantially stated to-day that it was this information regarding Chong Sing that led to his arrest. Whether or not the writer of the letter, they have not made public his name.

Fled in Girl's Clothes.

The police are to-day doing their utmost to find something more about the story that Ling, after the murder, took off the girl's outer garments and donning them, fled the city, impersonating a girl. The cloak, skirt, shirtwaist and coat have never been found.

It is not believed that he had time to burn the clothing, and their disappearance is now explained on the theory that he used the garments in an attempt to disguise himself in his flight.

He was an actor, a female impersonator, in China, before he came to this country eleven years ago. Persons who have seen him in the disguise say that only those who know he was a man would know the truth.

NEW LETTER TO MURDER SUSPECT DATED BOSTON

Acting upon information from New York, the police of Boston took up work again to-day in the Elsie Sigel murder mystery.

A number of patrolmen and detectives were detailed on a thorough search through the Chinese district to find a Chinaman named Fu Sing, a new figure in the mystery.

The search follows the news from New York that a letter addressed to Leon Sing, the man who killed Elsie Sigel, had been received in Washington and had been turned over to Inspector Boardman, chief of detectives in that city.

The letter was written on paper bearing the name of "Young's Hotel, Boston, Mass," was mailed June 22 at 5 p. m., and was received at the National Hotel on June 23, at 9 a. m. The letter reads:

Dear Ling:

Meet me restaurant, Sixth avenue, near Eighth street, New York, Saturday night. Good time. Portland boat leave Sunday. Portland nice place. Plenty money. FU SING.

At Young's Hotel it was said that no Chinaman of any name had been a guest there for several weeks.

A new turn was given the case to-day in New York, when friends of Leon Ling came forward for the first time since the finding of Elsie Sigel's body and declared that they believed he had been slain at the same time she was done to death. It was pointed out that Leon has apparently disappeared from the face of the earth. They say that the telegrams sent from Washington on the evening of the day Elsie Sigel was killed was probably dispatched by a friend of the murderer. They believe Leon's body was disposed of by the man they name, but that he did not have time enough to do the same with the body of the girl.

CHINA WILL PUT UP REWARD FOR ARREST OF LEON

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Unless Leon, supposed murderer of Elsie Sigel, is captured this week the Chinese government at Peking will offer a reward for his capture.

Mr. On Seon-tchum, first secretary, in charge of the legation in the absence of Minister Wu, cabled the home government and within a day received instructions to do all he could to find the murderer and to discourage crime among the Chinese of America. He received also the statement that the Peking government will take an active hand in the search unless Leon is found at once.

Following this cablegram the legation prepared a letter to all the Chinese consuls in the country, to the leading consuls in this country, to the leaders of the Chinese reform societies. The letter instructed the consuls and requested the others to issue an appeal to the better class of Chinese in America, urging that, as good citizens and representatives here of the Chinese empire, they do everything to make the disgrace put on the nation by Leon and should take a pride in bringing him to justice.

"Mrs. Gould was anxious to get a play adapted to her ability and was anxious to run smooth a moment," he said.

The Bellevue-Stratford incidents in Philadelphia were gone into in detail. Miss Robson, the Misses Sells and Mrs. Gould arranged a dinner for Farnum in Mrs. Gould's apartment.

"We sat there listening to Miss Robson tell funny stories. She was in a very facetious mood that night. After two hours I left Miss Robson in Mrs. Gould's rooms and went to my hotel."

He declared that he never visited Mrs. Gould's apartment at the St. Regis but once.

The Infernal Question

(From the New York World.)

POISON PLOT IN GOULD CASE?

per said he preferred to put Farnum on the stand.

"I am supposed to be an actor," Farnum began his testimony. He went on to say that he met Mrs. Gould seven years ago when Mrs. Lounsbury asked him to arrange a benefit performance at Sherry's. The next day he visited Castle Gould with Miss May Robson and had dinner in Mrs. Gould's private dining room.

In 1906 the actor said he was invited by Mrs. Gould to visit her at the St. Regis. His continued: "Mrs. Gould had an idea of returning to the stage, and I discussed the subject with her. I remained in her dining room for about an hour and a half and met Mrs. Elijah Sells going in as I came out."

This corroborated Mrs. Sells' story of the various meetings of Mrs. Gould and the actor. On the New England trip of one night stands which included a stop at Hartford the actor said he met Mrs. Gould only once. He had no idea she was in Boston while he was there.

Tragic Auto Tale.

Mrs. Gould, Farnum said, took lunch at his hotel in Stamford. She remained two hours. The following Sunday he said he went to Castle Gould. The subject of returning to the stage was always discussed, he went on.

The famous auto accident on Long Island was described in detail. Farnum said the car in which he and Mrs. Gould were riding to New York "struck a team and spilled six Germans all over the road." Citizens gathered and made a demonstration, "technically scaring me to death," volunteered Farnum.

The witness corroborated Mr. Palser, his manager, about a trip from Atlanta to the St. Regis with Mrs. Gould. "Mrs. Gould thought that she would have to do something to make money and talked with Palser about going back to the stage," the deposition read.

COURT CLERKS' LEAVE IS CUT

There is consternation at the Suffolk County Courthouse. Vacations in some offices are to be abridged.

Clerk Francis A. Campbell of the Superior Civil Court notified the clerks in his office, about thirty-five all told, to hand in slips telling when they wanted their vacations. For twenty-seven years these county employes have had three weeks' leave with pay every Summer. After they had posted Clerk Campbell when they wished to be away he informed them that they would be allowed two weeks' vacation only.

There is irony in the situation because when Registrar of Deeds William F. Fitzgerald notified his clerks that they would get a vacation of two weeks instead of three, some of the women clerks appealed to Alderman Tinsley. He had the Board of Aldermen pass an order request ing Mr. Fitzgerald to allow his office staff three weeks on the ground that was the time given attaches of all other courthouse departments.

FALL KILLS G. P. AYRES.

As the result of a fall in a Washington street store some days ago, George P. Ayres, for many years private messenger to Judge LeBaron Colt of the United States Circuit Court, died to-day at the City Relief Hospital. While Mr. Ayres's injuries were received fully a week ago, he never regained consciousness, as his skull had been fractured.

LOOK OUT FOR 'DARK HORSES' IN WORLD RACE

NOW for the final grind—for the final spurt, for the spunk which will determine the real winners in the Race Around the World contest.

Counting to-day and up to midnight Saturday, there are three full days left to poll your votes, to poll your subscriptions. These are the three days which are apt to cause an entire revolution of the standing. To judge from the activity in the past few days, it is entirely possible that some new leaders will be found when the list of winners is announced. Some names are apt to be found among the twenty-nine going winners who have never before figured in the roll of honor.

Watch Dark Horses.

Warning has been given several times to be on the lookout for "dark horses" in the race. These same "dark horses" have been exceptionally busy. They are busy now. It behooves those who have been in the lead, it behooves those who hold positions in the last roll of honor to be on the lookout, to get VERY, VERY BUSY to hold on to their places, to hold on to the positions that they have won.

Apparently there is no limit to the capacity for work on the part of the school children who are entered in this contest. It is truly wonderful to see how they are hustling. It would be unfair to mention names. All are hustling alike, both boys and girls.

There is a tendency on the part of the candidates to hold up their subscriptions until the last minute. If you haven't turned in any votes you have up to Saturday it will be well to begin NOW, and get them all in TO-DAY, so that the vote values can be credited to you.

Absolute Secrecy.

There is absolutely nothing to gain by holding up subscriptions. Absolute secrecy as to amounts received in the voting unit is maintained and will be maintained until the finish. Not one of the contestants knows what the other is doing; not one knows whether or not they have been displaced from their positions. No one knows who the "dark horses" is that has jumped from the rear and of the procession up among the eligibles.

Turn in the subscriptions you have and then get busy to pile up some more. Remember, Campbell's contest closes officially at the end, every minute, every hour and every day between now and midnight Saturday, June 26, will be productive of more subscriptions and more votes and votes. If you will only get after them. The subscriptions are there for you. They are there for you to grab.

Get busy, get busier, the busiest, the hardest worker who will get them. Why should it be? Because YOU should not YOU get the benefits of those 2,000 or more votes which go with every subscription. Don't you want them? Do you feel that your plate is full and that you don't want any more? If that is the way you feel, you don't are not in the race. Illusions of what the list of winners is announced. There is no position in the contest for botany or chemistry. It is a contest that may not be displaced in this last grand burst of a month.

Plug Hard Now.

Keep all of this in mind. Plug your hardest, your strongest, your best to-day. It means practically everything to you. In this contest, to make a good, strong finish. This is the season of the year, of the month, a race is won in the stretch. Many a race is won in the last jump or two, remember that.

When the final standing is announced you may be surprised to find that you have been beaten you by a few hundred votes, or by but one or two subscriptions. And then you will kick yourself, you will kick yourself, you will recall one or two or three friends, or even more to whom you could have gone and who would have been glad to subscribe for the paper, if requested. It will be TOO LATE then. NOW is the time to do it all your thinking. Now is the time to task your brains. Now is the time to make the appeal to everybody and anybody. There is not a person whom you will approach who does not take or who does not have a Sunday newspaper at his or her home.

Plenty of Prospects.

They are prospects for you. They are prospective subscribers, if you can get after them RIGHT. Most of them, if you will tackle them hard enough, will be glad to help you. It is all up to you to show them if they subscribe how you will benefit by their subscriptions.

Get after the subscriptions. Get after them hard. Let these last three days be your banner days. Let these three days do the work for you. Let these last three days put you among the twenty-nine. It is possible. If you do not succeed, it is all your own fault.

HOUSE IS READY FOR TARIFF FIGHT

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The insurgent Republicans in the house, who made the fight against the adoption of the old rules and won a partial victory, say they have been informed that Speaker Cannon and the organization intend to gag the house when the tariff bill comes back from the Senate, by forcing, if possible, the adoption of a rule that will send the bill, without debate, immediately to conference. The insurgents say that if the Democrats stand it that no such "gag" rule can be adopted, and some of the more important amendments tacked on by the Senate can be debated and voted on.

A lively fight is anticipated in the House when the tariff bill comes back from the Senate.

YOUNG TURKS TO RISE AGAIN

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 24.—Turkey is facing another revolution. The friction between the Young Turks and the military party, led by Nazim Pasha and Chefkit Pasha, is increasing daily, and a clash is believed inevitable.

The Young Turks are dissatisfied with Sultan Mehmed V, who is declared to be nothing more than the tool of Chefkit, who is the dictatorial military autocrat.

The Young Turks plan the abdication of Mahmed V and the substitution of Prince Yussuf Kazim, the heir apparent. Chefkit will declare martial law at the first hostility.

'LORD ASHBURTON' CASE CONTINUED

The case of Charles F. Richards, alias "Lord Ashburton," who is charged with fraudulently obtaining $25 from Louis Muckenstrum, a local proprietor, by means of a worthless check, was continued in Boston Municipal Court to-day to June 29.

PAINTER MISSING A WEEK.

Charles Forster of No. 19 Marion street, East Boston, employed as a painter by the Boston Water Company, has been missing from home since Tuesday morning. At the Boston Water Company it was said that Forster had not been at work for a week.

150 FLEE AS HOTEL BURNS

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., June 24.—The magnificent Fort William Henry Hotel, on Lake George, one of the finest resorts in Northern New York, was burned to the ground early to-day with the loss placed between $150,000 and $200,000 and no loss of life.

The engineer of the artificial ice plant discovered the fire at 3:30 o'clock in the servant's dining room. He aroused Manager Wilson, who in turn aroused the servants and his sister and father. With difficulty an escape was made.

CARPENTERS TO FILE PROTEST

Mayor Hibbard will undoubtedly be asked on to-morrow by a committee representing the District Council of the various carpenters' unions. Greater action. The officers of these unions declare that in giving out "day work" contracts for the city several heads of departments refused to pay the increased wages asked for by contractors employing union men since the union scale was raised, and Saturday half-holidays started early this month.

Arthur M. Watson, secretary of the District Council, states that the question of appointing a committee to wait on the mayor will be taken up at to-night's meeting of the union. He anticipates favorable action on the part of the union.

Van Camp's is Natural Milk
Condensed Milk is Not

This is how condensed milk differs from Van Camp's—in cost and quality and service. Please learn the facts, then judge which you want to use.

Many people still cling to condensed milk because they don't know why Van Camp's has displaced it.

They pay twice as much as those who use Van Camp's, and they get but half of the service.

So we deem it wise, in the interest of all, to publish these important facts.

Nothing But Milk

Van Camp's is simply rich Holstein milk with two-thirds the water evaporated.

Nothing whatever is added—no sugar, no starch, no preservative. Nothing is subtracted save water.

Our evaporating plants are located in six states, and all of them are close to our dairies.

The fresh milk is there placed in a vacuum. And a very moderate heat, because of the vacuum, throws off the water in steam.

We reduce the milk until it shows 8 per cent butter fat—about 28 per cent total solids.

The milk is sterilized after the cans are sealed. We do nothing else to preserve it.

Six Cents per Quart

The tall can of Van Camp's contains sixteen ounces of evaporated milk—a full pint and full pound.

The can costs ten cents when you buy by the can, and less when you buy a case.

If you replace the water which we take out, you have whole rich milk at about six cents per quart.

It is cheaper than raw milk, because the cost of raw milk lies largely in the cost of daily delivery.

Condensed Milk is Nearly Half Sugar

Condensed milk may be also evaporated somewhat, for the purpose of reducing the bulk. But then sugar is added—from 40 to 50 per cent.

That was the old way of preserving milk before sterilization came in to displace it. And makers are very glad to have users cling to it, because the sugar cheapens the milk.

But remember this: About half that you pay for condensed milk buys nothing but preservative sugar.

A 10-cent can of condensed milk contains only 12 ounces. A 10-cent can of Van Camp's contains 16 ounces—just one-third more.

Then, nearly half the condensed milk is sugar, for which you are paying twice what sugar is worth. Think what those differences mean in a year.

Another Waste

But here is another waste more important still:

Condensed milk, being sweetened, is fit only for table uses. You must use other milk for your cooking.

Van Camp's goes twice as far on the table, because it is twice as rich. And for cooking it is the best milk in America.

In milkman's milk you rarely get the whole milk. The butter fat rises and the solids fall. The milk that you use for cooking is hardly a half milk, usually.

In Van Camp's you get the whole rich milk, just as it came from the cow. You get all of that butter fat, all of the solids. Van Camp's gives to milk dishes a richness and flavor which you never get from raw milk.

Once prove this fact and you'll never go back to the milkman. Nor will you use sugared milk.

A Cow in the Kitchen

Van Camp's means a cow in your kitchen. It means milk or cream for any purpose ready when you want it.

It means great economy, for it is cheaper than raw milk and it involves no waste.

It means such delicious milk dishes as you never can make without it.

Think of paying twice the price for condensed milk and getting only half of the service.

Van Camp's Milk is sold in 5 and 10 cent cans—at your grocer's. The 10-cent can is the more economical and grocers give discounts on cases. The 10-cent cans contain 16 ounces while all 5-cent cans contain only 6 ounces. It is put up at our dairies in six states by the Van Camp Packing Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

SOX PLAY WITH SENATORS AT WASHINGTON

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

DOVES IN LAST GAME OF TRIP AROUND CIRCUIT

REST FOR WEARY LOCAL FANS WHILE RED SOX BATTLE AT WASHINGTON

We shall rest, and Faith we shall need.
To lie down for an eon or two,
Until his nibs, Mr. Umpire,
Sets the ball teams working anew.
—Boston Fans.

Rest. And do they need it? Well, rather!

The willing bugs of Boston have been sort of worked overtime for the last couple of weeks, and now the one day of rest, a day off on account of there being no game scheduled in Boston, is a welcome one.

Out of twenty scheduled games the Red Sox have played eighteen, and the fans have had a busy session attending all these contests. Recently the weather has been so hot that life on the unshaded bleacher seats was pretty tough, but the bugs didn't care for that, for the hot weather limbers up the players and makes all feel like playing real baseball games.

The Red Sox will appear in the Senators' camp this afternoon, and are carded to linger in the midst of the United States capital for three more days, as Mr. Joe Cantillon's team, which has just climbed out of last place, desires to take a wallop at and attempt to stop the steady advance of the Boston representatives.

Joe Cantillon's team, by reason of a little euro-enough real, honest, high-class baseball, has managed to climb out of last place, only by a few points, but they're enough to keep the St. Louis team on the bottom. Cantillon tips it off that the few victories his team has enjoyed in the last few days has practically made a new aggregation of his ball tossers, and "Never again" is what the Senator boss says when he thinks about last place.

It is rumored that there are all kinds of things awaiting the Red Legs when they arrive in Washington, for the Senators want revenge for the many beatings they have suffered at the hands of Fred Lake's crew.

There will be five games crammed into the four days in which the locals will invade Washington, for there is a postponed game which has to be played off. This means a double-header, which will likely be played on Saturday.

Manager Lake says, regarding the rumor that "Doc" Gessler, captain of the Red Sox, will be traded for "Doc" White of the Chicago White Sox:

"We would like very much to have the Red Sox twirling department strengthened with a good pitcher, or a couple of good pitchers, but there is small chance of us giving up our 'clean-up' batter for White. Gessler has been hitting the ball like a good fellow, and his willingness has won us a good number of games. Comiskey says he would pay good solid cash for Gessler. Well, that is out of the question, for President Taylor is not wrecking the box any of his players, especially Gessler."

President John T. Taylor says "money no object" when they put a price on any of his men, and there is little chance that he will trade Gessler for White.

When the team boarded the train last night the only missing faces were those of Cheek, Cicotte, Maddox, Speaker and Strunk. Speaker and Cheek are a bit under the weather, and Speaker is suffering from a slight attack of chicky pocks.

BASEBALL TEAMS ELECT CAPTAINS

WATERVILLE, Me., June 24.—Frank W. Cary of Lewiston was elected captain of the Colby baseball team. He fitted for college at Leavitt Institute and registered at Bates, afterwards coming to Colby, so was barred from athletics his first year. He has been the regular catcher this year and has played quarter on the football team. He will be a senior next year.

William Hoernis was elected captain of the Dorchester High baseball team for next season. Hoernis played third base a year back, but this Spring was shifted to short stop, where he made a remarkable showing.

* * *

Jim McGrath, the fast second baseman of the champion Brookline High team, was elected captain of the nine for next year.

* * *

Henry A. Bowen, who played left field on the Mechanic Arts High nine this season, was elected captain. He is one of the fastest outfielders in the Boston high schools, popular with the players and expected to make a good leader.

WILL PLAY OFF TIE BEFORE BIG CROWD

Malden High and Medford High will play off the tie for the championship of the Suburban League Friday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at the Broadway Field, Somerville. The victory for Medford over Malden on Tuesday tied up the series, and rather than have two schools share the championship the management of both teams met yesterday and decided to dissolve the top tie.

The game will be played on a neutral field, and one of the biggest crowds of the season is expected to attend. Malden won the title last year, and seemed in a fair way to repeat this year, when Medford caused an upset.

CUTCH KNOCKED OUT.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Jack Curley knocked out Harry Cutch in the second round of a ten-round bout at the Sharkey Athletic Club. In the second round Cutch landed a few hard body blows, and then Curley, with a stiff right blow to the jaw, put Cutch to the floor, falling heavily on his head. Cutch tried ineffectually to rise during the count, but finally keeled over helpless. Curley knocked Cutch out in a bout three weeks ago.

17-INNING TIE IN N. E. LEAGUE

LOWELL, June 24.—In the record game of the present New England League season for extra innings, Lowell and Brockton played to a tie, the score ending 4 to 4 after seventeen innings had been contested. In the early part of the game Brockton looked a sure winner, but in the ninth inning Finlayson gave two passes and Lowell made two hits, which, with an error by Finlayson, netted Lowell three runs. In the seventh inning Lowell tied the score and from that time until the game was called on account of darkness at 7:15 o'clock the teams remained tied.

THIS WORM TURNED.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 24.—Umpire Joseph O'Brien, a former member of the New York police force under Chief Devery, appealed to a local officer to remove W. H. Harden, a prominent citizen, from the grandstand during the game between Birmingham and Memphis in the Southern League.

The umpire maintained he had a right to remove the man, who was accused of "personal abuse." Officials refused to permit Harden to be forcibly ejected for fear of a civil suit, and Harden remained, with a promise to be good. O'Brien umpired in the New England League last year.

GOLF GOSSIP
NEWS OF THE LINKS

Brookline High School has a great little captain for its golf team in Ouimet. This youngster, while still rather small of stature, has got a great deal of good golf in him, and in the schoolboy matches has turned in scores of 76 and 78 for the Woodland and Commonwealth courses respectively.

Gilbert Nicholls did not play very well in the aggregate score mixed foursomes held at Englewood previous to the open United States championship. His card of 81 was very high, while he could easily have been in first place if he had scored one of his usual low rounds. As it was he was third with Mrs. Rendigs of Englewood, with four shots more than the winner.

Andrew Campbell, who received his early training as a professional golfer under his brothers Matt and Alex of the Country Club, was tied with two others, including Nichols and his partner, at 166 in the mixed foursomes at Englewood. Andy had a card of 76, and as he has been making good in the game at the Spring Haven Club and doing some low scoring he may show up well.

Two local professionals who are homebreds held their own against Alex Ross and Jack Jolly in a practice match recently. M. J. Brady and T. L. McNamara of Commonwealth and Wollaston, respectively, are the former pair, and McNamara with an individual card of 71 and the help of Brady on a few holes was able to get an even break with Ross and Jolly in a best ball foursome.

The sectional team matches arranged by the Massachusetts Golf Association are being worked out promptly. The latest match to be reported is the defeat of the Springfield C. C. in the singles matches last week. Springfield had landed all three of the foursomes and felt pretty sure of stepping into the next round as they only needed to win two of the six singles matches. The unexpected happened and Framingham captured five out of the six, giving them a victory with the total of 3 to 4.

While the team has not as yet been entirely chosen for the State team match between Connecticut and Massachusetts it is thought that the following players will be the ones considered by H. H. Wilder, who of the Gresham, with Lieutenant Billard as chief of staff.

The Gresham will sail to-day for regular patrol duty in her district, and will proceed to New London the first of the week.

A race between the Yale and Harvard second fours has been arranged for Saturday afternoon of this week on the Thames. The distance has not been fixed, but it is expected that it will be over a two-mile course. The hour of the race and course, whether up or down stream, will depend upon the tide.

THE TOWN THAT WAS BORN AGAIN—What a live young Mayor can do for a dead town is shown in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

LEAGUE RACE IS SIZED UP ON PAPER

The Baseball Magazine for July will indeed be read with interest by the fans in these times of baseball madness. The first story is a contribution by J. C. Morse, the editor, which gives an idea as to which teams are likely to make the races in the two big leagues, so far as can be predicted from their work up to date. George Wright, who played shortstop on the old Cincinnati and Boston teams, gives a complete and accurate history of the work of that grand nine in the early years they were in existence. There is a story of the invention of baseball, written by Warren R. Briggs, of the mask, and a backstop, now a noted architect.

Other interesting articles are: "The New Ball Park at Pittsburg," "The American Association," "The Team That Never Wins," and "The Baseball Telegrapher."

There is a beautiful Indian story which has to do with the defeat of a colored heavyweight champion by one taking on all comers at a vaudeville house.

TRACK GAMES AT PROVIDENCE

There will be city of Providence open amateur games on the morning of July 5, under the auspices of the Providence Athletic Club. The games have received the sanction of the A. A. U. and are open to all registered amateurs, the entrance being free.

The events will be as follows: 100-yard dash; handicap; 220 yards, limit; 1 mile handicap (60 yards limit), 2½ mile scratch race for boys who have not reached their eighteenth birthday, and a 10-mile handicap (8 minutes limit).

Seven prizes will be given in the 10-mile race, and three in all the others. The prizes will be silver cups, with the exception of the awards for first place in the mile and for the boys' race in the 2½ mile, which will be bronze and copper punch bowls.

The entries will close on Monday, June 28. Blanks may be had from W. C. H. Brand, secretary of the Providence A. C., 87 Weybosset street.

MELROSE ELECTS CAPTAIN.

Donald Dike was elected captain of the Melrose High baseball team to-day. Dike has played on the team for two seasons at second base and as pitcher and was also the heaviest hitter on the team. He is a member of the 1910 class.

"I WONDER IF THEY'RE ALL TRUE TO ME"—You can't help singing the GREAT HIT SONG when it appears in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

YACHT RACE OFF.

Charles A. Cooley, secretary of the Boston Yacht Club, announces that the required number of entries for the cruising race from Marblehead to Gravesend Bay has not been received. The race has been declared off.

HARVARD CREW PUT IN PERIL BY A STEAMER

HARVARD TRAINING QUARTERS, Red Top, Ct., June 24.—Harvard's varsity eight was swamped by a sight-seeing steamer, just as the Crimson oarsmen finished the third mile of the six-mile row for which they had waited all the week. The steamboat kept pressing close upon the Harvard shell till the first crew was in danger of being broken into pieces by the swash.

Coxswain Blagden shouted to the eight to stop rowing and try to hold the boat from breaking or capsizing. The oarsmen were forced now to get out of the course with only the loss of a time row. A little more and they would have been foundering in the water with a broken shell.

The launch came to the rescue of the oarsmen, took them aboard and the shell in tow and returned to the boathouse.

The loss of the time row completely upsets Harvard's plans for the week. Another time row will be attempted Saturday night, but the coaches were eager to learn the possibilities of the eight in its new make-up. The time for three miles was 15 minutes 22 seconds. The freshmen started with the varsity and gave them a merry scrap for the first two miles, the varsity winning by three lengths. The freshmen led the first quarter mile. The try was down-stream.

Paxton, the freshmen coxswain, has gone back into the shell. He was reinstated Monday night because he was overweight. He has taken off twelve pounds in three days, through long cross-country runs, continually sweating, several sweaters, and by fasting.

Four revenue cutters, the Gresham, Mohawk, Androscoggin and Acushnet, have been detailed for the races. The fleet will be under the command of Captain Uberhof of the Gresham, with Lieutenant Billard as chief of staff.

The Gresham will sail to-day for regular patrol duty in her district, and will proceed to New London the first of the week.

A race between the Yale and Harvard second fours has been arranged for Saturday afternoon of this week on the Thames. The distance has not been fixed, but it is expected that it will be over a two-mile course. The hour of the race and course, whether up or down stream, will depend upon the tide.

JOE THOMAS TO BOX SULLIVAN AT ARMORY

The final boxing show of the season takes place at the Armory Club next Tuesday night, and the program arranged insures a night of good sparring sport.

Since his stay in Philadelphia Tommy Sullivan, the Lawrence boxer, has been beating all comers in rapid fashion, until to-day he is figured good enough in the Sleepy City to meet Papke, Ketchel or any middleweight in the world.

Thomas has been industriously preparing for a meeting with Harry Lewis, and so should jump into the Armory Club arena next Tuesday in rare good form.

This is one match where the men can be depended upon to forget reputations. Three superior six-round bouts precede the main attraction.

THE PIGTAIL ROMANCE, "The Nostalgia of Yen Lung," will be concluded in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

RACING AND SPORTS AT PARISH PICNIC

Not only will the athletes [illegible] have a chance in a grand array of events offered at the annual picnic of the Assumption Parish, East Boston, at the Point of Pines June 28, but J. E. Fitzgerald, who has the matter in charge, asserts that [illegible] will have their inning at a series of trotting and pacing races. He has donated a fine harness for the faster class, while the slow horses will contest for a cup.

The entries received for the events are Johnny Agan, Major M., Billy F., Edith J., Cheldon, Corthel, Max C., General Starr, Forrest W., Ben H., Billy Wilkes, Glorious Tessie and Dare Devil, Jr., the property of owners in Greater Boston and Lynn.

It is arranged that the horses be divided into preliminary heats, the first three in the dash qualifying for the harness, which is best three in five heats. The [illegible] qualifying will be eligible for the [illegible] race, which, too, will be three in five heats.

While the racing and athletic sports are under way there will be going on a couple of baseball games among well known local teams.

BOSTON AUTO PARTY STARTS FOR DENVER

By J. C. KERRISON.

An automobile trip from Boston to Denver was inaugurated at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon when F. M. Hobblett of Providence and H. S. Smith of Menasha, Wis., in an Alco car left Hotel Westminster outward bound. The gentlemen have long contemplated such an extensive trip as this, which will cover in all something like 3,000 miles. The car being used is a forty-five horse power Alco top tonneau just as it was received from the factory without any extras or any special attachments, it being in the same identical condition as are all cars of that make when turned over to the customer.

The trip will take a period of seven or eight weeks, the tourists making stops enroute, [illegible] at many places making detours from the straight path. The stopping point last night was Hartford, Ct., from which place they go to Brattleboro, thence to Albany, and through the chain of towns and cities along the New York Central road. The party will work its way West, touching only the high spots, arriving at Detroit about the time of the start of the Glidden tour, and the route will [illegible] to Denver, this trip being virtually what might be known as the Hobblett revised Glidden tour. At Albany Mr. Hobblett will be met by Arthur Jervis, who may accompany the party as far West as Denver.

Numbers have now been allotted to the cars entered for the A. A. A. touring contests and the cars sorted into groups according to the trophy for which they are entered. Among the latest entries is a White steamer that will use nothing but kerosene as fuel on the tour. The list of entrants with the official numbers assigned to them is as follows:

For the Glidden trophy—No. 1 Premier, 2 Premier, 3 Chalmers Detroit, 4 Marmon, 5 Marmon, 6 E. M. F., 7 E. M. F., 8 E. M. F., 9 Maxwell, 10 Maxwell, 11 Jewel, 12 Pierce Arrow, 14 Pierce Arrow, 15 Glide, 16 Thomas, 17 Midland, 18 Lexington, 19 Stoddard Dayton, 20 Stoddard Dayton, 21 Stoddard Dayton, 22 White.

For the Hower Trophy—No. 100 Moline, 101 Moline, 102 Moore, 103 Brush, 104 Brush, 105 Chalmers Detroit, 106 Hupmobile, 107 Maxwell, 108 Pierce Arrow, 109 Pierce Arrow, 110 McIntyre, 111 Stoddard Dayton, 112 Jewel, 114 Mason.

For the Detroit Trophy—No. 51 Amori[illegible] Staples, 52 Chalmers Detroit, 53 [illegible].

Non-Contestants—No. 77 Rapid truck, [illegible] Automobile and Motor Age car, 77 [illegible] Rubber Company car.

Official Cars—No. 98 Pilot E. M. F., 99 Chalmers car Trailer.

W. B. Scott at the wheel of Ford No. 2 by arriving in Seattle shortly after noon yesterday, captured the first ocean to ocean race ever held in this country and incidentally proved beyond all question that a medium priced American motor car can accomplish feats once considered impossible. Twenty-two days and fifty-five minutes this little car was on the journey, meeting with all sorts of road and weather conditions and surmounting difficulties which caused the rather more larger, more powerful and more costly motor vehicles, causing much of the car, and likewise of the men will take high rank in the motor annals of America, and gain for them reputations excelled by none.

This was truly a wonderful performance, one which will likely not be duplicated for some years to come, and one proving the excellence of construction and reliability of Ford product.

The Shawmut, the local entry, was the second car to finish, and considering this was the first national event in which the [illegible] had nothing whatever to be ashamed of. But, of course the glory must go to the car that can travel the distance from New York to Seattle in the best time and be the first to reach the goal and destination.

The Ford No. 2 is a stock Ford, being stripped for the occasion. She proved capable on the level stretches, over the mountains, through the mire and swollen rivers, and without no matter what weather conditions, reached Seattle the winner of the Guggenheim trophy and a handsome cash prize for her drivers.

The AMERICAN is the great Home paper.

'FRISCO GETS DIZZY SEEING BOXERS TRAIN

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—The thump of the punching bag is heard in the land just now and the popular training resorts are so crowded that the proprietors are compelled to farm out some of the pugilists to nearby hostelries.

The fight calendar is so crowded with dates that it makes one dizzy to try to keep track of all the punching bees there are to look forward to.

One of the busiest condition camps around the bay is Billy Shannon's at San Rafael. Here Young Erne, the Philadelphia lightweight, is getting ready for a tussle with Lew Powell next Friday night.

Leach Cross too is at Shannon's preparing him for his marathon mill at Coffroth's Saturday afternoon. Young Corbett with Tim McGrath as director of affairs, is also at the San Rafael condition farm toning for his July date with Johnny Frayne. It is remarked that Corbett looks better than he did during some of his training stunts here a few years ago.

The Sullivan twins, Mike and Jack, are in evidence sparring with the other boys.

Coffroth is planning ahead in respect to Cross and Hyland. If Cross wins he will be sent against either Packy McFarland or Bat Nelson late in July. If Dick comes out on top he may be matched with McFarland.

Billy Papke got busy at the Seal Rock Hotel where he has gone into quarters in preparation for his July 5 match with Ketchel. He sparred three fast rounds with Harry Foley and spent an hour with the gymnasium apparatus. Papke begins the day with a dip in the surf and does road work after breakfast.

Young Ketchel begins training at Millett's to-day.

Wolgast and Manager Jones left yesterday morning for Los Angeles, where Wolgast fights Nelson a ten round go July 13.

Papke wants two to one or ten to six for his $5,000 when he gets Ketchel on July 5. Nothing [illegible] with evens, [illegible] says. A bunch of coin from Los Angeles, where Papke put Ketchel away, is [illegible] a few days before he fight. They [illegible] Papke a cinch [illegible] there.

FRENCH STYLE OF BIKE RACING AT REVERE

The bike fans will have a new attraction at the Revere track on Saturday night when the management will hold a thirty [illegible] race, which is the French style of riding a motor paced event. There will be three five-mile heats and a final distance of fifteen miles with three riders in it.

The four men to compete in the trial heats are Jimmy Moran, the well known Chelsea star, Freddie Hill; Anderson, the Dane, and Dennis Connolly, the fast Everett rider.

The quartette will draw for positions to ride two five-mile heats the two winners will race and then the two losers, and then there will be another heat for the final losers, to qualify one for the final heat.

This style of racing is popular in France and Germany and gives a man a show who might have been defeated in the heats by [illegible].

BIG TRACK MEET AT AMERICAN LEAGUE PARK

There will be a bunch of athletic stars in the game of the Cambridgeport gymnasium at the American League grounds on Saturday. Billy Robbins, the half-mile and quarter-mile champion who competed in the Olympic games, will be a starter in the 440-yard dash.

President Bowen of the Providence A. C. has got together four of the strongest runners in Rhode Island to compete as a relay team, which will be seen in the evening's program of sport.

Nearly 100 entries have been received from different athletic organizations, and the ten-mile Marathon event is attracting widespread attention, as six valuable prizes will be awarded.

As the games are all under A. A. U. sanction, new records made will stand.

BOSTON AMERICANS DOUBLE

Women in a War to End Noisy Fourth

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

THE women who belong to various Peace Circles throughout the United States are working consistently and with a purpose to bring about a new understanding of the Fourth of July in the minds of parents

Once this new idea takes root in the parents, mind it will stand some chance of reaching the mind of the small boy. Parents are not given to much logical reasoning where the question of amusement and pleasure for their children is concerned.

Every year I hear sensible men say: "I remember what fun it was to me to have firecrackers and guns and combustibles on the Fourth, and I don't want to deprive my boy of the same pleasure."

This sounds like unselfish reasoning, but IT IS THE ESSENCE OF SELFISHNESS.

The population is increasing in our towns and villages. The size and noise and danger of toy firearms and combustibles is increasing, and where Fourth of July, thirty years ago, meant a few hours of popping firecrackers and a few neighbors to hear, see and smell the celebration, it means pandemonium and confusion and danger, and sometimes death, to-day, and annoyance and disturbance for thousands, whereas of old only scores were concerned.

The Death Toll of "the Fourth"

Three years ago the statistics for Fourth of July accidents were as follows in the United States:

In twenty-four hours, one thousand children and adults were maimed for life; six hundred were rendered totally blind and five hundred were killed outright.

Since that time herculean efforts have been made by the manufacturers of explosives to bush up such accidents, and the newspapers and periodicals that could be bought have been silenced regarding the slaughter of the last two "Independence Days."

The unthinking fathers have allowed the Fourth of July evil to grow into alarming proportions; and the thinking mothers have risen to the occasion and will eventually bring the men to a sense of their responsibility in the matter.

The Dawn of the Era of Peace

The airship is a vehicle of peace. It is a forerunner of a [illegible] will help to bring about universal arbitration and peaceful pleasures. No [illegible] in your day or mine perhaps, but by and by war will become [illegible] and "mad form," and all the paraphernalia of war will be done away with.

She Loves Him—She Loves HIM Not—By Nell Brinkley

Do You Call Your "Dearie" By a Pet Name?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHEN I was a baby my mother thought seriously of calling me "Muriel." And I shiver even now when I think of my narrow escape. Not that the name is not a pretty enough one in its way, but I don't care for it and it wouldn't suit me in the least.

Wouldn't it be nice if we could choose our names instead of having them flung at us when we are too young to resent them?

Perhaps, however, it is just as well that we do not choose them ourselves, as some of the good old names would be lost sight of entirely in the flood of highflown, romantic names that many girls would choose.

I love the old names, such as Jane, Susan, Mary, Elizabeth, etc., and I think Margaret is the most beautiful name of all.

We have had so many Dorothys and Marjories that those pretty names have lost their quaintness and become commonplace.

There ought to be a law forbidding nicknames and the shortening of names.

For instance, it is positively wicked to change the beautiful name of Mary into "Mamie," and even worse when the ambitious young person who does so spells it "Maysie."

I have a dear little baby cousin called Dorothy, and most of her family call her "Dot."

Called "Ted" All Her Life

Another member of the family, whose name is Winifred, has been called "Ted" all her life.

Elizabeth is a beautiful, dignified name and half the time it is shortened into "Lizzie" which is not beautiful at all.

While we are on the subject, it might be well to say something about "pet" names. Engaged people like to have special names for each other. They want to have special names that no one but them selves will use.

That is well enough if they keep these names for use when they are alone, but to use them before other people is bad taste; also it sounds very silly.

Have a pet name for your degree if it makes you any happier, but don't use it when others are around. It embarrasses them and makes you appear foolish.

I know a woman who is both a [illegible] and middle-aged and her husband frequently calls her "Baby" and "Girlie."

He calls her pet names because he loves her, but he ought to realize how very ridiculous he makes her appear in other people's eyes.

One term of endearment that has been run to death is "Sweetie."

I have heard a woman say, "Yes, but [illegible] when I knew she called [illegible] 'Sweetie' and shake her, but the habit was so strong that the word slipped out [illegible]

Our Grandmothers Meant It

When our grandmothers said "dearey" they spelled it with a "y" and they meant it.

Let us stick to names as they are [illegible] and avoid such names as far as is possible.

In choosing a name for your little son or daughter choose one that they will not hate as they grow older.

If your father or grandfather had an ugly name, don't pass it on to your child just for reasons of sentiment.

I know how I would have hated to be Muriel, so I speak feelingly.

The Manicure Lady Seeks a Cottage by the Sea

She Finally Decides She Would Rather Be Slim Than Be President

THIS is one [illegible] Maxims of Kipling's from the old Hindu [illegible] turbaned Persian who sat on his heels and wrote riotous poetry, with eyes [illegible] flow and bade you change the [illegible] Lick of [illegible] th of the flowers that [illegible] you [illegible]

And it is a good little bit of counsel for the Billy who has Her and wonders if she loves him a lot, and worries when she turns her little shut [illegible] of a rose away from him and up in the air and chills the very hair of his head with the ice of her gaze.

Because the man that a Betty doesn't give a flip of her little pink finger for is the one she can face the easiest.

She can jolly with him till the bossy cows come home. She can smile sweetly right into his eyes for five minutes and never flick an eyelash. She can walk close beside him and swing her hand in his and talk at him all day long and have plenty of say left over when night comes.

Because, you see, never a little thrill does he rouse in her.

The touch of his hair under her hand is like a child's, or a girl's or a wisp of grass, nothing more. Her eyes don't bother her, because she has nothing for him in them. She is as cool to him because she is not afraid.

But the one she does! She turns icy eyes on him to hide the fire in them, for fear he'll see. She runs away from him because she is afraid she might reach out her hand suddenly and smooth his face. She quarrels at him and is silent with him because she has nothing to say but "I love you," and she's afraid she might.

She lowers her head when she passes him by and frowns to cover the trembling lips all this is true! And it's jolly to think of the Billys in perfect bliss with some Her smiling easily into their eyes and chattering with them with her face close to theirs—and some other's moodily glaring at the swinging water, with Her straight and silent ten feet off with scorn on her mouth and frost in her eyes—for neither of them know.

Alan Dale Tortured in Nuremberg

By ALAN DALE

NUREMBERG, June 17.—It is dreamy and fairly [illegible] here. There [illegible] ing "Lohengrin," and I am going home to my bed. Nuremberg is a ready fast asleep, and I am alone. I shiver, and I am apprehensive.

My footsteps clank through the deserted arches of this medieval city, and the echo of my boots in the [illegible] corridors shocks my nerves. I traverse many a wide and empty "plain," full of nothing at all, and my spirits sink.

But Nuremberg is getting even with me, and I suffer with as good grace as possible. I am a seeking modern thing, and using every beautiful "atchie," and each elaborate "ruthaus," and perpetually seeking the wicked thing known as "amusement."

Still Getting Even.

Nuremberg gets even with people every time. You can see in the Burgraves' Castle an ancient torture chamber, in which the Iron Virgin stands. The Iron Virgin is a mouldy lady, whose interior is filled with iron spikes. In the old days when Nuremberg had a grudge against anybody, the offender was plunged into the aching interior of the iron figure, and left there to perish in lengthy anguish.

But there are tortures quite as bad today as those of Iron Virgins in the days of old, and Nuremberg gets me a dozen to night when, in my thoughts, unpleh was I thought I'd try and see the Nuremberg version of food having a "good time."

The doomed jollity of the thing is wine me all, and must abide with me for many a day. Down into a gloomy beer-hall stung I to see what Nuremberg calls the "Victoria-Sanger." A cavernous retreat, ill lighted and filled with weird, stinky perfumes smothered me up. The cavern was lighted by gas, which seemed ferociously and grotesquely modern. There should have been yellow dips, or wicks floating in oil, in buckboard ornaments.

Peasants and peasantesses, Nuremberg dudes and Nuremberg lassies sat at the same table before similar foaming tankards. They all looked thirsty, and as they tilted the contents of the tankards into their interiors one could scarcely see them. What was this another liquid. Oh, nothing more than to give it up. The people that has the coin is the people that gets the good places. The rest of us has got to be satisfied with a fist that is somewhere near a beer garden, where we can see, from our windows, a lot of green stuff planted in carrots full of dirt.

"The rich can bear the roar of the ocean, and the beat the poor can get is the roar of the landlord and the grocer. The only consolation that we get is that it makes us poor folks slim and shapely. No gout for us."

"That's a whole lot in itself," declared the Manicure Lady. "I would rather be slim than be President."

Shouted Into the Night.

The Victoria-Sanger seemed anxious to lift Nuremberg from its medieval lethargy, but not to know how. There were six of them, all of the male persuasion, and they stood in a row on the small, dark stage, and shouted into the night. One called himself a humorist, and another a comedian, and a third a baritone, and a fourth a recitationist—and so on.

Why those poor souls were in Nuremberg is not nearly so much of a mystery as why I was sitting spying upon them, in that dark cavern under the deserted streets, alone with a tankard of amber liquid.

The torture began. It was slow torture. The Iron Virgin, if legend may be believed, did her work quickly. The Victoria-Sanger prolonged the agony, and watched the quivers of the victim. It racked my nerves, but my associates in the cavern rumbled with pleasure, and ordered more amber liquid. One of the buckles Victoria-Sanger gave a parody of Joseph's "Nore," which drew tears to my eyes, and another monkeyed with "Othello."

It seemed to grow darker and darker. My undaunted spirit was in my boots, right at the very toes of them, too. It was as useless of me to caper about Nuremberg, in my feeble, modern way. The amber liquid made me feel awfully stupid, which perhaps was the correct thing to do. Every body appeared to feel awfully stupid. The cavern reeked with stupidity and beer, and why should I have expected light and life in Nuremberg?

But I did not endure the Victoria-Sanger very long. It could not possibly be. I went to Nuremberg was laughing at me assdonically. I imagined that the peasants and the peasantesses were casting furtive eyes at my embarrassed person. I tried to hide my face in my stein of beer, so you may imagine how very uncosy I was.

And I feel that the punishment fits the crime, and I will not complain, but, also, I will not forget. I shall remember the legend of the Iron Virgin, and I'll never be wicked enough to seek for what they call "relaxation" in old Nuremberg again.

THE MYSTERY OF THE YELLOW ROOM

By GASTON LEROUX.

Copyright, 1908, by Reutlan's.

In Which Frederic Larsan Explains How the Murderer Was Able to Get Out of the Yellow Room.

FIVE minutes later all were assembled in the laboratory. The Chief of the Sureté, who had arrived at the Glandier, joined us at that moment. I was seated at Monsieur Stangerson's desk, ready for work, when Monsieur de Marquet made us the following little speech—as original as it was unexpected:

"With your permission, gentlemen—as examinations lead to nothing—we will, for once, abandon the old system of interrogation. I will not have you brought before me one by one, but we will all remain here as we are—Monsieur Stangerson, Monsieur Robert Darzac, Daddy Jacques and the two concierges, the Chief of the Sureté, the Registrar and myself. We shall all be on the same footing.

"The concierges may, for the moment, forget that they have been arrested. We are going to confer together. We are on the spot where the crime was committed. We have nothing else to discuss but the crime. So let us discuss it freely—intelligently or otherwise, so long as we speak just what is in our minds. There need be no formality or method, since this won't help us in any way."

Then, passing before me, he said in a low voice:

"What do you think of that, eh? What a scene! Could you have thought of that? I'll make a little piece out of it for the vaudeville." And he rubbed his hands with glee.

I turned my eyes on Monsieur Stangerson. The hope he had received from the doctor's latest reports, who had stated that Mademoiselle Stangerson might recover from her wounds, had not been able to efface from his noble features the marks of the great sorrow that was upon him.

He had believed his daughter to be dead, and he was still broken by that belief. His clear, soft, blue eyes expressed infinite sorrow. I had had occasion, many times, to see Monsieur Stangerson at public ceremonies, and from the first had been struck by his countenance, which seemed as pure at that of a child—the dreamy gaze with the sublime and mystical expression of the inventor and thinker.

Always a Devoted Daughter.

On those occasions his daughter was always to be seen either following him or by his side. Or they never quitted each other, it was said, and had shared the same labors for many years. The young lady, who was then five and thirty, though she looked no more than twenty, devoted herself entirely to science. She still won admiration for her imperial beauty, which had remained intact, without a wrinkle, withstanding time and love.

Who would have dreamed that I should one day be sealed by her pillow with my papers, and that I should see her, on the point of death, painfully recounting to us the most monstrous and most mysterious crime I have heard of in my career?

Who would have thought that I should be, that afternoon, listening to the despairing father vainly trying to explain how his daughter's assailant had been able to escape from him?

Why bury ourselves with our work in obscure retreats in the depths of woods, if it may not protect us against those dangerous chances to life and death which meet us in the busy cities!

"Now, Monsieur Stangerson," said Monsieur de Marquet, with somewhat of an impatient air, "place yourself exactly where you were when Mademoiselle Stangerson left you to go to her chamber."

Monsieur Stangerson rose and, standing at a certain distance from the door of the Yellow Room, said in an even voice and without the least trace of emphasis—a voice which I can only describe as a dead voice:

"I was here. About 11 o'clock, after I had made a brief chemical experiment at the furnace in the laboratory, leading all the space behind me, I had my desk moved here by Daddy Jacques, who spent the evening in cleaning some of my apparatus.

"My daughter had been working at the same desk with me. When it was her time to leave she, too, kissed me and bade Daddy Jacques good night. She had to pass behind my desk to the door to enter her chamber, and she could do this only with some difficulty. That is to say, I was very near the place where the crime occurred later."

"The Door Was Locked Inside."

"Might not a man in the room, the door being so near to the door, by stooping and slipping under the desk, have left it unobserved?"

"You are forgetting," interrupted Monsieur Stangerson wearily, "that my daughter had locked and bolted her door, that the door had remained fastened, that we vainly tried to force it open when we heard the noise, and that we were at the door while the struggle between the murderer and my poor child was going on. Immediately after we heard her stifled cries while she was being held by the fingers that have left their red mark upon her throat. Rapid as the attack was we were no less rapid in our endeavors to get into the room where the tragedy was taking place."

I rose from my seat and once more examined the door with the greatest care. Then I returned to my place with a despairing gesture.

"If the lower panel of the door," I said, "could be removed without the whole door being necessarily opened, the problem would be solved. But, unfortunately, that last hypothesis is untenable after an examination of the door—it's of oak, solid and massive. You can see that quite plainly, in spite of the injury done in the attempt to burst it open."

"I cried Daddy Jacques. "It is an old and solid door that was brought from the chateau—they don't make such doors now. We had to use this key of hers to get it open, as four of us—for the concierge, brave woman she is, helped us, it seems me to find them both in prison now."

Daddy Jacques had no sooner uttered these words of pity and protestation than tears and lamentations broke out from the concierge. I never saw two accused people crying more bitterly.

I was extremely disgusted. Even if they were innocent, I could not understand the part they behave like that in the face of misfortune. A dignified bearing at such times is better than tears and groans, which, most often, are feigned.

One of the most important weddings of the season was that in North Easton of Miss Evelyn Ames, the wealthy young society woman who is perhaps the largest property owner of any girl in the country, and Frederick Garrison Hall of Watertown. The ceremony, which was private, and witnessed by only the immediate families, took place at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Oliver Ames, 2d, in the beautiful music room which was handsomely decorated for the occasion with roses, palms and orchids from the Ames conservatories. The Rev. William L. Chaffin performed the ceremony, which was followed by a small reception. The bride's gown was of heavily embroidered cream satin. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will probably sail for Europe on Saturday on the same steamer with Mrs. Hall's cousin, Eleanor Ames, who married Mr. Lincoln Filley. The Halls will remain abroad indefinitely.

AN UP-TO-DATE NOVEL FOR SUMMER READING

By WEX JONES

Fulfilling the main requirements of Summer fiction in being easy to think about

I.—Araminta, the Svelte Stenographer

ARAMINTA was tall and lithe. Despite this she was an excellent stenographer, and although her head was so far away from the keys she never spelled any words wrong, except, of course, "believe," and "decieve," which no girl ever could get any nearer to.

It was vacation time, and Araminta, who had saved most of her salary, announced that she was going to Manchester-by-the-Sea. When she left, the office appeared strangely different. Young Millions, the junior partner, wandered around disconsolately, occasionally throwing glances of deep discontent at the substitute stenographer, a short, stout person, who, as she never spelled a word twice in the same way, occasionally got one right.

Three days later, in his famous racing car, the junior partner was rapidly speeding toward Manchester-by-the-Sea.

"I never knew before how I miss her," he said to himself as he ran over a flock of chickens.

"How could I get on without her?" he asked himself, bumping absent-mindedly into a wagon and knocking a farmer over the fence.

"I must hurry to her," murmured young Millions, letting out another notch and tossing a cow high in the air.

Without incident the hurrying young man reached the hotel.

Araminta was just going in for a swim, and never did she look better than in her neat bathing suit.

"Araminta!" stammered the junior partner.

"Why, Mr. Millions," exclaimed the lively girl, evidently not altogether surprised by the visit.

"Araminta"—again the young man stammered—"could you—er—would you—that is——"

"Yes, Mr. Millions——"

"Could you—er—would you—would you—er—come back to the—to the office—and—er—take your vacation another time? Er—you see, we're so busy now, and—er—you know."

Coldly the long and lissom Araminta nodded her head in assent, and plunged savagely into the water.

II.—Bullions, the Portly Life-Saver.

BULLIONS was one of those bare brawns bounties to be observed along the beaches in the Summer months. He was, of course, a college man, and was earning a little money by walking up and down the sand in a decollete bathing suit and now and then hauling a gurgling infant out of the water.

But life was to be changed for Bullions. No longer would a bunch of boys with rolled-up trousers, all hammering stains upon a table, represent to Bullions the supreme joy of life.

There was a cry as the life-saver walked majestically along the sands.

Posing for a moment, Bullions allowed his glance to sweep the waves.

Six feet from the shore he saw a beautiful girl struggling in the water.

Dashing into the foaming ripples the intrepid young life-saver picked up the screaming victim and carried her to dry land.

The girl had been wading, had slipped and fallen, thus wetting her new bathing dress. Hence the screams.

Needless to say, Bullions and Ethel Smythe became close friends, but at the end of the season they drifted apart.

Next Summer, as Bullions again marched broadly upon the sands, he started with pleasure as he saw the buxom Ethel advancing toward him.

She had in tow a meek, submissive little man, who had the air of being constantly bullied.

"Hubby, dear," said Ethel, "this is Mr. Bullions, who saved my life last year."

Wherefore the small, meek man fell upon the large, bulging life-saver and beat him sorely.

Good Bills at the Theatres

After "Home Folks" at the Orpheum, Lindsay Morison's stock company will play "Shapho." Edna Bruns will take the title role.

Augusta Glose, now at Keith's, is a highly gifted musician, and herein lies a part in that, for her father is a great Wagner exponent.

Donald Meek has made a big hit at the Castle Square as the chief funmaker in "Floradora." The piece is finely produced all the way.

Some of the De Koven songs in "The Yankee Mandarin" have become very popular. "Towale Mangolay" is already being rendered by whistlers.

"The Traveling Salesman" will close at the Park Theatre a week from Saturday. It is worth seeing.

Something new is given in "A Broken Idol," at the Tremont Theatre every week, the changes make it worth attending more than once.

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," at the Bowdoin Square, shows how strong and lasting is this great story by Robert Louis Stevenson.

"Down on the Farm," at the Globe, is the name of an act in which Rice and Walters are pleasing.

The new theatre at Norumbega Park is finished, and the vaudeville given there is one of the best of Summer shows.

There is no end of novelties to be seen at Waverley this season, and it is becoming noted as a place for fish dinners.

Luna Park, the new Revere Beach venture, is in a very accessible locality and is already becoming popular.

One of the free features of Paragon Park is the opening of an opera company which gives "Pinafore" in thirty minutes.

For those who want a day's fishing in the ocean nothing can beat the steamer King Philip, which makes daily trips to the best grounds.

Bass Point steamers leave Otis Wharf and take amusement seekers where it is cool, and there is no end of recreation.

$50,000,000 IN TAFT'S TAX PLAN

WARRINGTON, June 24.—When officials of the government reach the point of figuring out how much money they will collect from corporations under the tax of two per cent. on net earnings over $5,000 for dividends they doubtless will view with satisfaction the result of their computations. The net earnings of the railroads of the United States for the fiscal year which ends June 30 will approximate $700,000,000, upon which the tax would amount to $14,000,000.

This includes only the steam railroads and the tax that would be collected from the traction companies is sure to run into stupendous figures.

Always conservative, the President, in his special message to Congress, said the plan would result in the collection of not less than $25,000,000 annually. Members of the Senate Finance committee believe it will reach at least $50,000,000.

$5,000 NEEDHAM FIRE ENDANGERS BIG MILL

The Dexter Block, formerly known as Keith Block, near Chestnut street, Needham, was damaged by fire. The blaze started in the attic and the two upper stories were badly burned. The department from Needham Plains responded to the alarm, as there is a lumber yard in the rear of the building and several business blocks adjoin it. The value of the building was about $4,000, covered by insurance. The damage sustained by occupants of stores was less than $1,000.

MISS HARRIMAN, WHO HELPS WAR ON WHITE PLAGUE

Miss Mary Harriman.

HARRIMAN'S DAUGHTER AIDS POOR

NEW YORK, June 24.—Hundreds of men, women and children suffering from tuberculosis are to be cared for in a unique manner by Miss Mary Harriman, daughter of E. H. Harriman. It was learned to-day.

The young woman has arranged to have one of the ferryboats of the Erie Railroad, with which her father is connected, turned over to the Brooklyn Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis and the Brooklyn Red Cross Society for the use of the patients who need open air treatment.

Mr. Harriman has given the ferryboat to his daughter. After the transfer she exhibited interest in the fight against the white plague and so planned that at least 200 sufferers may be accommodated on the boat at one time, all enjoying the open air and receiving expert attention.

On July 1 next the boat will go into commission, with the Red Cross flying from her flagstaff. She will be moored at the foot of Columbia street, Brooklyn, and the two societies mentioned will choose from the army of sufferers those who should reap the benefit from this latest charity of Miss Harriman.

Three good, solid meals a day—the ingredients prescribed by physicians—will be given the patients, and brewers of cocoa meals all the milk and all the eggs the patients want. Miss Harriman has arranged so that the extremely poor sufferers may be taken to the boat free and cheer in 'busses, for which she will pay.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS: FINANCIAL NEWS

UNION PACIFIC LEADS MARKET

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Union Pacific preferred advanced 6½ points in the first two minutes of trading in Wall Street to-day. The establishment of a high record price and revived reports of an early issue of securities by the company. The general belief in Wall Street is that very valuable rights will be given to the stockholders of the company, the preferred participating in them in an equal footing with the common. In the past there have been disputes as to the rights of the preferred stockholders to participate, but the company is understood to have taken legal advice and decided that the shareholders must all be treated alike. One report is that the preferred stock holders may be offered a convertible bond for their shares with the expectation that it will ultimately be turned into common stock. The common stock of the company advanced 1¾ points.

Southern Pacific was strong. Steel shares rose higher. The general market was active and strong, with New York Central up nearly a point.

After the first half hour of trading the market became dull. Declines of half a point from the high level ran through the list.

On the New York curb Larose was the leader, selling at its high record of eight and one-sixteenth, which is three and one-half a fraction under eight. The porphyry copper were neglected, Nevada Consolidated being the copper metal market.

In London to-day Americans were almost buoyant, Union Pacific preferred being the leader.

GOTHAM EXCHANGE CLOSES JULY 3

The governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange has granted the petition of the members to close the exchange July 3, giving another triple holiday. The cotton and coffee exchanges will also close on the same day.

STRENGTH IN LOCAL STOCKS

STATE STREET, June 24.—A little more animation was noted in the local stock market in the early trading and there was a degree of strength in keeping with the firmness in New York.

Profit taking in many cases caused slight reaction, but the tone of the whole market was good.

Amalgamated touched 80⅝ on short covering, while North Butte ran off a point from the high to 57⅝. Inside buying on U. S. Smelting common caused the price to come within ½ of 50.

Union Pacific preferred touched 103¾, a gain of 1¾ in New York, which is in advance from 103⅜, last night's closing. The questions is asked: What sort of a dividend will be declared?

American Telephone showed strength and touched to 142¼. The local Stock Exchange has stricken 150,000 shares of Alaska Copper from the regular list and placed in the unlisted department receipts of the Alaska Copper Company, amounting to the extent of 77,161 of the 150,000 shares published. There will be no quotations of the Stock Exchanges or Curb the Saturday preceding July 1.

The curb showed both soft and strong spots. Valyrie was conspicuous with its advance to 8. National Exploration receded from 38 to 34½, while Bay State Gas broke from 41 to 35 cents.

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, June 24.—According to all precedent, the advance in the stock market must be put down as a mere rally at the expense of shorts. But the public must not forget that never before in the history of America has Wall Street had a reserve fund of $500,000,000 on which to draw in an emergency. Even admitting that the crops will be big and that a business boom is under way, there will be more money available than this country will know what to do with. Suppose the crops are not all that is hoped, however, and is quietly shipping gold across the Atlantic in New York, which is now appearing across the water there will be enough idle millions left to keep Wall Street boiling for months. Nobody knows exactly what the bankers' reserves are, but the professionals have never had any experience of the kind. The only danger is that if some daring operator sees his chance he could force Wall Street to have its bull campaign right away without waiting for the crops.

$ $ $

The view taken of the situation is some conservative quarter is that prior to the present stock market boom the condition was decidedly over-bought condition, which has been corrected to some extent, though a further process will be needed before weeks will be needed to restore it to normal. Conservatism is to be shown as a fundamental upward movement in the Wall Street market, but that considerable irregularity, with sharp advances from time to time, in the movement becomes overextended, may be expected.

$ $ $

J. Ogden Armour, who has just returned from an extended trip abroad, says: "My observation of business and financial conditions throughout the world leads me to believe that the leading European countries are situated much as we are in this country, and that is to say, on the threshold of a prosperity boom, such as has not been known or even experienced before." Mr. Armour hastened to qualify this statement to a certain extent by saying that the indications referred to have been principally observed abroad as at home, but still they exist to a perceptible degree.

$ $ $

Most of the buying is on behalf of professional traders who have sold short. The Harriman stocks are well supported by the insiders, with a view of getting them back into the hands of the public, because the shorts "killed" Harriman in 1907 by cornering stock in the market, and they cannot complain over their treatment.

$ $ $

European bankers have taken no chance on Harriman's wealth, and a prominent one in London has called attention to the watch every movement of the railroad man in New York. He says that a cablegram received from this source stated that Mr. Harriman is not in the least interested in personal appearance the longer he stays in Europe.

$ $ $

Union Pacific preferred attracted much attention because it has had three days of the most sensational movement, except on the theory that the exchange would be limited strictly to 4 per cent dividends. But the enormous stockholders' meeting to vote to let the preferred shareholders enter into participation under legal objections could be raised. Strength of New York Central seems to be a part of the general Harriman movement.

$ $ $

Strength of Chesapeake & Ohio attracts attention, chiefly because it is selling nearly ten points higher than Alton, another Hawley stock, that is paying the same dividend and getting much better times its dividend. If Hawley were manipulating Chesapeake up, he would naturally put Alton up with it, otherwise the rise in Chesapeake could not be justified. It is evident, therefore, that Chesapeake is rising in spite of Hawley, and this indicates an important deal.

$ $ $

Reading was advanced again for the same reason as that of yesterday. This stock has $30,000,000 of its capital in the hands of the public, and the Steel Trust has $500,000,000 of common stock in circulation. Yet, as a rule, there is twice as much Reading traded in as Steel. This is another point the governors of the New York Stock Exchange might investigate, for it is evident there is flagrant manipulation in Reading, however may be the merit of the stock.

$ $ $

Third Avenue has touched the lowest level reached on this movement, selling down to 23. This decline is due to expectation of a heavy assessment, at least $25 a share being necessary for reorganization purposes. The Hawley-Shonts-Morgan pool will buy Third Avenue at the proper time, but not much before then. If the stockholders wish their property back they will have to pay the assessment.

$ $ $

The sensational flood of orders for steel and iron products from the Harriman, Gould and Rockefeller interests is an argument against higher prices, but it cannot be fairly taken as such, because it was against reason to expect such a crop of business to keep up. The present stock is holding more than a normal rest, such as always follows a wild rush of business. It will be due as much to a desire to be sure of the crops as it is to worry over the tariff. The report from Washington that pay is the proposition to tax corporations may be put over until the regular session is indicative of the tendency to counteract any bad tariff feeling.

In the current financial year the electric companies will have a satisfactory business although the belief prevails that it will be the last year in which the 1910 business conditions are normal. The General Electric Co. alone has at present orders on hand for receiving orders at the rate of between $60,000,000 and $70,000,000 a year, and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. orders at $125,000,000 a year.

Over the last two years electric light contracts have been scarce. According to reports from the electric companies there is plenty of business in sight and the public will ought to witness a very active period for the companies manufacturing electrical supplies. The General Electric and Westinghouse Electric companies are the companies that are well fortified from the standpoints of working capital and surplus, and engage in enterprises without assistance from banking syndicates. As an illustration, the General Electric Company on January 31 last had working capital of $25,000,000, as compared with $12,250,000 on January 31, 1908, and $8,250,000 on January 31, 1907. The company has a working capital approximating $37,000,000.

The feature of the copper situation is that consumers have very large quantities of electrolytic copper at current quotations. The United Metals Selling Company, as well as other large producers, decline to come down to their prices, which is 13¾ cents for electrolytic.

The large producers or copper insist that the movement in copper abroad is purely speculative, and is no barometer of actual conditions. As one producer put it, "As soon as the speculators stock up at the highest prices possible they will switch around and endeavor to force the market up again."

BISHOP TO KEEP UP WAR ON HARVARD

TRENTON, June 24.—Bishop McFaul has given out an interview in which he not only repeats, with emphasis, the criticisms he made against Yale, Harvard, Princeton and other secular colleges and universities of the United States which the bishop made in his Commencement Day address at St. Francis Xavier College, New York, but he returns to the charge with even greater force than his original statement.

"My charge that the Yale curriculum includes courses that undermine faith and breed immorality was quoted correctly by the press," said the bishop in an interview. "As I said then, and say now, that I intend to say before I am done with one of the most menacing conditions the young men of this country have ever had to face.

"As custodian of the faith and morals of my people I feel it my duty to do my best to prevent their sending their sons to institutions where the very core of the best years' course is the upbuilding of a religious and infidelity with tempered ideas. The actual experience in the workaday world would never produce.

"I have no fault to find with the young men. They are as a rule clean and strong and bright and the best material out of which to make useful, God-fearing citizens—when they enter college. It is not their fault that on their graduation day they are not still as worthy of a moral sense as when they began their educational course.

"I am not basing my charge on the condemnation of Yale and Harvard and Princeton alone. Every other year I manage to appear before the graduating class of St. Francis Xavier and based on proofs I myself have gathered. But the charges have been made by a responsible writer in a reputable magazine. It puts the onus of proving it false on all evidences false square up to the universities."

CALL OUT ALL BILLPOSTERS

The billposters on strike at the John Donnelly & Sons' shop, who demand $18 a week for drivers and $15 for helpers, to-day received word from George R. Elliot of the New England district representative & Billers International Alliance, that he approved their strike.

"This," the men say, means that every man employed by the firm in other cities in the district will be called out in sympathetic strike.

This would include men in Quincy, Cambridge, Lynn, Salem, Lowell, Lawrence, Woburn, Natick, South Framingham, Winchester, Fitchburg, Gardner, Worcester, Holyoke, Hyde Park, Braintree and Randolph.

FISHERMAN LOST IN FOG ON BANKS

Barney Stobber, who lives in East Boston and is married, went adrift forty-five miles east of Highland light on the Georges Bank one week ago, and has not been seen or heard of since. It is feared he perished of hunger or thirst, or went mad and jumped overboard. A dense fog shut him off from the fishing schooner Clara Jane, and when the craft came to T wharf to-day with fog at half-mast Captain Frederick Lewis reported that he remained when he stepped ashore and learned that Stobber had been picked up by some other vessel. The Alice cruised for two days in search of the bank looking for the missing fisherman.

FINED FOR KISSING IN CENTRAL PARK

NEW YORK, June 24.—For kissing a boy in Central Park, Miss Helen Powers, nineteen years old, a trained nurse, who lives with her parents at Steinbis, Ore., spent twenty-four hours in a cell, and to-day she and the boy were fined $10 each in the Yorkville Police Court. "If you shall tarry that there must be no kissing in Central Park," The boy who was arrested with Miss Powers was James White, sixteen years old, of No. 1640 Lexington avenue. The young woman is a graduate of the Nurses' Training School for Nurses, and she has done duty in Mt. Sinai Hospital, where she met young White.

BESSEMER PIG IRON PRICES TAKE JUMP

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 24.—The price of basic and Bessemer pig iron has been advanced 50 cents per ton, effective to-day. Bessemer pig is advanced from $15.25 to $15.75, and basic pig from $14.75 to $15.25. A Pittsburg concern has just consummated a deal for immediate delivery of 100,000 tons of basic iron. It is said, the blast furnaces producing pig iron for the above contract are operating 95 per cent. of their capacity, and the pig iron furnaces 80 per cent.

NEW PLANETS FOUND BEYOND NEPTUNE

PARIS, June 24.—M. Gulliet has discovered two more planets, far beyond Neptune, one 4,500 millions of miles from the sun and the other still farther distant. M. Gullet is director of observatory of the system. These planets have not yet been named. Gullet has discovered them mathematically, which is the way Neptune was discovered. M. Leverrier's calculations were immediately followed by visual search, and Gullet's opinion will have to wait till 1912 before an actual demonstration is due.

WHITE WIFE IN FIGHT TO SAVE CHARLES' LIFE

Mrs. Warry Charles, the American wife of one of the five Chinamen to be sentenced to death Fri. under Saturday morning, is to fight to the end to save her husband's life.

Following a consultation with her husband's attorneys, the lawyers at once proceeded to draw up a motion to bring the case before the United States Supreme Court on the ground that Charles' constitutional rights had been violated.

Mrs. Charles, to whom she married by husband after they had been students together at a Nebraska college, is residing at 20 Quincy Terrace at 11 Myrtle street.

Should the Supreme Court grant a writ of certiorari the case will be brought into the Superior Court Saturday morning, and the death sentence will be passed upon them. The doomed men are Warry Charles, Lee Gney, Leong Gong, Ham Woon and Min Sing.

Despite the seeming hopelessness of the case, Mrs. Charles has not lost faith in the ultimate freedom of her husband.

"These men," said Mrs. Charles last night, "were brought here by the Leong Tongs, their own brethren, and the members in order know who the murderers are. They have been tempted to swear away the life of Mr. Charles and the others, and have apparently succeeded. I know Chinamen, as I have been associated with them for years, and I know that these men were murdered by the On Leong Tong and that they have been sent to the chair to get even with Mr. Charles and others of the Leong Tong, as brought charges of murder against them and entered into a conspiracy to have them sent to the electric chair.

"But we shall fight to the end. Mr. Pratt, one of my husband's counsel, is at work now and motion to bring the case before the United States Supreme Court, and I will spend every cent I have to get my husband free."

ART BEQUESTS IN ESTES WILL

Many bequests of money and art treasures are made in the will of Dana Estes, the publisher, art collector and traveller, which was filed to-day in the Dedham Probate Court. He left nearly $2,000 to the town of Gorham, Me., to be used for the celebration of the town's centennial. A trust fund of $2,500 and valuable photographs of Navajo Indians are bequeathed to Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va.

A sufficient sum for establishing a scholarship is given to Hatch College. The Boston Public Library is to get a set of the Italian portrait, medallions and architectural drawings of Pietro Lombardo. Music is given portraits of Chief Justice Fuller and of the late Supreme Court Justice Horace Gray and James G. Blaine.

The portrait of Theodore Roosevelt is given to the Portsmouth Navy Yard as an incident to the Portsmouth Peace Conference. A portrait of the late Governor George D. Robinson is given to Harvard on condition that the town purchases and fittingly marks the birthplace of the Massachusetts governor.

The residue of the property is to be held in trust and the income of the fund appropriated until the youngest son, Philip Estes, is 21 years old. Each son has an interest in the publishing house of the same name, given to Dana Estes and Frederick H. Estes, the two eldest sons. Three sisters are also named in the will.

METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE CO.

(Incorporated by the State of New York. Stock Company)

JOHN R. HEGEMAN, PRESIDENT

INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT

In January, 1907, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company largely increased the benefits in its Industrial policies by reason of a heavy reduction in expenses and improvement in mortality experience.

During the past three years the Company has steadily reduced its expenses, so that it is enabled to make a further increase in its Industrial insurance policies have a unit of weekly premium—three cents, five cents and multiples thereof—and the amount of insurance varies with the age.

All Industrial Life policies (premiums cease after age 74). Endowment policies at age 80 and Adult Twenty-one Year Endowment

Policies issued since Jan. 1, 1907, will be increased in benefits about ten per cent.,

according to a new table of benefits adopted for policies issued after July 1, 1909. In other words, not only does the Company issue a new table for policies hereafter issued, but it makes the increase retroactive since the present form of Limited Payment and Endowment policies.

Upon the OLD INDUSTRIAL POLICIES the Company is paying out TWO AND A HALF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN BONUSES THIS YEAR, bringing up the total bonuses and Conservation upon Industrial policies to EIGHTEEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN SIXTEEN YEARS. This is OVER AND ABOVE ANY AND ALL OBLIGATIONS expressed or implied in the policies.

The Insurance Department has the lowest Ratio of Expense of all the Industrial Insurance Companies in the world which pay immediate benefits. In FIVE YEARS its

Ratio of Expense to Premium Income has been reduced

8 per cent., representing an

Annual Saving of Three and a Half Millions of Dollars

The new Convertible policy issued by the Company is a novel form of insurance which becomes fully paid-up life insurance in a few years and is then automatically converted into endowment insurance, the maturity of which is periodically shortened as payment of premiums continues. The Company is abreast of the public demand for combination of term insurance and annuities, and serves the public better than any other agency.

INDUSTRIAL POLICIES IN FORCE: NEARLY 9,500,000, INSURING NEARLY $1,500,000,000.

ORDINARY DEPARTMENT

The Company has reduced expenses six per cent. in this Department in the last FIVE years—representing an ANNUAL SAVING OF OVER A MILLION AND A QUARTER OF DOLLARS IN THE ORDINARY DEPARTMENT.

The Company insures policies in the Ordinary Department in amounts from $500 to $1,000,000 upon all approved plans at the lowest rates. IN 1908 IT WROTE MORE PAID-FOR BUSINESS IN ORDINARY OLD LINE INSURANCE (exclusive of Industrial), in the United States and Canada, THAN ANY OTHER COMPANY.

All of its policies in the Ordinary as well as the Industrial Department are written on the non-participating plan. The Metropolitan pays its dividends at the start—that is to say, it cuts down the premiums. It believes the plain, common-sense way to make up the bulk of policy-holders look for a plain business contract. By plain business contracts we mean those which tell their whole story on the face; which leave nothing to the imagination, and which require neither arithmetic nor fractions to understand, and make definite promises in dollars and cents.

In both Departments combined the Company has, in each of the past fifteen years, written more paid-for insurance than any other company in the world

The Company upon Its Total Business Has in the Last Ten Years Reduced Its Ratio of Expenses to Premium Income Fifteen Per Cent.

CITY GOVERNMENT BY A STATE COMMISSION

An Experiment That Seems Doomed to Defeat—Why Not Let the People Govern Themselves

Governor Draper has appointed the five members of the permanent Finance Commission, or Smelling Committee, created by the new city charter.

And very soon the people of Boston WILL KNOW how it feels to have ALL THEIR RIGHTS TAKEN AWAY FROM THEM, while they are bossed by Dictator Lodge and his Finance Commission.

It is a blow to popular government. It puts an end to home rule. It makes the Republican bosses more powerful than they have ever been before. It is a bad business for the citizen and the taxpayer.

Little need be said of the ability or lack of ability of the members of the commission. They will HAVE TO DO AS THEY ARE TOLD. The Republican bosses will boss them, too.

Under the plan of government by the Finance Commission the city will quickly lose the little power the people have had to manage their own business. The affairs of Boston are now administered by the State bosses for their own advantage.

There is no more reason why the State of Massachusetts should interfere with the local government of Boston than there is that the United States Government should interfere with the rights of the State of Massachusetts and seek to govern it by commission. NOT ONE REASON.

The people of Boston have THE RIGHT to govern themselves as they please without a SMELLING COMMITTEE appointed by the State.

And some day they will get back that right and push the Lodges, the Cranes, the Drapers and the other bosses back into oblivion, where they belong!

Five Billions for Irrigation —Why Not?

There Could Be No Better Investment. Many Times That Sum Will Be Spent Eventually

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

Somebody is shocked because the advocates of irrigation by the national government suggest spending five billions within a few years, putting water on dry, desert land. One brilliant paragraph writer says:

"Only five billions! The national irrigators are too shy. Make it a hundred!"

Yes, make it a hundred billions, by all means, if that amount is required for irrigation, and if the country in the centuries ahead can spare it—which it can.

No money can be spent more wisely than the money spent to supply water, fertility and crops to soil dry and useless without the water.

Five billions seems like a good deal of money, but it isn't very much IF IT IS WELL SPENT. The nation that can talk glibly about piling up battleships, instruments of death, at ten millions apiece; the nation that can give that fortune of a thousand millions to an individual; the nation that can spend millions for whiskey that ruins the brain and the body—CAN WELL AFFORD TO SPEND BILLIONS ON IRRIGATION, WHICH IS THE IMPROVEMENT OF THE EARTH.

The greatest source of wealth that we know IS WATER. The water is drawn up from the salt ocean, scattered over the land by the clouds. The rain pours into the Great Lakes. And this water, worth many times five billions, rushes out into the ocean, where it is lost, taking with it through the mouth of the Mississippi and other great rivers the valuable soil worth many millions more.

Before the waters of our lakes and rivers run back to the ocean human ingenuity should take all that is needed to scatter over the dry fields. Even the fields that we call fertile need more water, and ought to have it.

Farmers impoverish themselves paying thirty and forty dollars a ton for fertilizer. But the fertilizer without the water is useless, and with irrigation the water would not cost half a cent a ton.

When the government spends its millions and billions on irrigation it will be doing the REAL WORK of the human race on this earth. Our work here is to develop the earth, make it into a beautiful park, fertile, every inch irrigated and cultivated—a park in which human beings may live together in peace and plenty, in harmony and friendship.

This work is going to be done, and the advocates of irrigation help it along. The day will come when not a dollar will be spent for a rifle, a bullet, a battleship or a lawyer. Emulation will replace competition everywhere. Contests between men will be contests of the mind, each struggling, not to help himself, but to help the whole of humanity by adding to the wealth and knowledge of the race.

This rich country, with its great lakes, its enormous fortunes, its vast tracts of land that need irrigation, and that will repay irrigation with ten dollars for one, ought to lead in the task of beautifying this earth.

The people of France, after the war with Germany, were condemned to pay a fine of five thousand millions of francs to Prussia. The sum was raised by the French people, not only once, but fourteen times over.

France, a small nation, at the end of a disastrous war was ready with fourteen billions of dollars to pay a war debt.

Would it be such a horrible thing for this country to raise five billions of dollars to pay part of man's debt to this earth that supports us?

SAVE THE BABIES!

In This Weather Give Your Child a Drink Often—It Cries for Water Oftener Than for Food

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

Hot weather means, unhappily, the usual numerous and unnecessary deaths of children. White hearses come out in this weather, with the little white coffins lined with satin. And the poor mothers that have suffered to bring their children into the world suffer more intensely as they see them die. And then they use the money that might save the other children to pay for an expensive funeral which our false ideas of respect for the dead impose upon us.

Thousands of children are killed every year—

Because tenement house owners have more influence with politicians than mothers and children.

Because dangerous, diseased milk is sold in spite of all warnings and Health Board regulations—money again more important than life.

Because the lesson of pasteurization has not been thoroughly taught, and doctors that ought to know better are stupid enough to oppose it, for reasons which they best understand.

There are a few things for mothers to remember.

If you are worried about your baby, have a doctor see it. A GOOD DOCTOR. If you cannot get a good doctor, go to the Department of Health, get the advice of a doctor at a free dispensary.

Don't wean the baby when the weather is very hot, if you can possibly help it, or when it is ill. The change in food upsets the digestion and may be fatal at a critical moment.

Feed your baby regularly.

Sacrifice everything to this important point. The child's stomach gets used food at certain times, and digests it easily at those times, if the food is regular.

Get a doctor's advice about feeding a baby if it is delicate. Every two hours in the daytime and every four hours at night will do for a healthy child.

Don't dress your baby warmly. HAVE NOTHING TIGHT AROUND ITS NECK, OR STOMACH, KEEP EVERYTHING LOOSE AND AIRY EVERYWHERE.

Have your windows open day and night. Keep the baby off the dirty floor, where it gets germs on its little hands and puts them in its mouth.

Remember that in the really hot weather the thinnest possible clothing is all that a child needs. One little, thin, cotton shirt, low-necked and without sleeves, will do while the baby is indoors.

Avoid strong draughts. But better a draught than not enough air.

Above all, give your baby enough to drink. If the baby cries in hot weather, give it two or three spoonfuls of water, cool, BUT NOT ICED.

Boil the water that you give your baby. And keep the boiled water tightly corked in a clean bottle so that germs won't get into it.

Feed it with a spoon dipped in hot water, A CLEAN SPOON.

Dangerous signs of disease that carry off children suddenly are vomiting and diarrhoea. Notify your doctor, or the Health Department, AT ONCE.

Let your baby REST. KEEP THE FLIES AWAY FROM IT. THEY BRING DISEASE.

A young baby, washed clean in the morning, with cool but not cold water, put on its back almost naked on a bed with a mosquito netting thrown over the top of the bed (but not touching the child)—such a baby, fed regularly, with water to drink when it wants it, will be happy in hot weather.

Don't let the children tease the baby. Don't let grown-up people play with it and tire it. Remember that it is GROWING UP AND DOING NOTHING ELSE. Don't try to awaken its intelligence or make it laugh.

If you stir up the little brain you disturb the little stomach.

Remember, WHENEVER A BABY CRIES SOMETHING IS WRONG.

Don't get cross; FIND OUT WHAT'S THE MATTER; that's your business. It may be a tight string, a bandage drawn too closely around the legs, need of a change of linen, or it may be thirst.

Don't feed the baby every time it cries. Give it water. Remember that.

If you offer to nurse a baby when it is thirsty it will take the breast or the bottle TO RELIEVE ITS THIRST, and thus YOU FORCE IT TO OVEREAT.

Incidentally, vote and work for better conditions in this rotten world, which allows tens of thousands of children to die every year needlessly, because of poverty and official neglect.
